

FIRST PRAIRIE MAIL PLANE CRASH KILLS THREE

Bobby Jones Into Semis By Smashing Win Over Coleman

Defeats Young Californian 6 and 5 in Thirty-six-hole Match to Advance Step Nearer U.S. Amateur Golf Title; Jess Sweetser Wins Over Maurice J. McCarthy Jr., 5 and 4; Gene Homans and Charles Seaver Other Winners; Jones Will Meet Sweetser To-morrow.

Merion Cricket Club, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 25.—Bobby Jones, with a smashing finish, swept into the semi-finals of the United States amateur golf championship to-day by overwhelmingly defeating Fay Coleman, a twenty-three-year-old Californian, 6 and 5, in the thirty-six-hole quarter finals. Jones was 2 up at the end of the first eighteen holes.

Only two matches now stand between the Georgian and a clean sweep for the year.

Jess W. Sweetser, New York, former British and United States champion, staged a strong finish to defeat Maurice J. McCarthy Jr., of New York City, the "iron man" of the tournament, 5 and 4. Sweetser was 1 down at the end of the morning round.

SWEETSER PLAYS JONES

Sweetser thereby earned the right to play Jones in the semi-finals. They have not met in the amateur championship since Sweetser beat the Georgian in the 1922 tournament, which he won.

Gene Homans of Englewood, N.J., overwhelmed John Lehman of Chicago, the western amateur champion, 6 and 7, and to-morrow will play Charles Seaver, nineteen-year-old Los Angeles youth, who continued his sensational march at the expense of Billy McPhail, Boston, 5 and 4.

Jones after a shaky morning round which ended with him only 2 up, settled down to business in the afternoon and shot par golf at his California rival. The Georgian three-putted the green, but became 7 up, with 8 to go, after winning six out of seven successive holes.

Coleman put on a game comeback that extended the match three more holes before the triple champion clinched it. Birdies on the twenty-ninth and thirtieth out two holes from Bobby's margin, but he settled the issue on the short thirty-first.

LEHMAN GOES TO PIECES

The collapse of Lehman's game against Homans was one of the day's biggest surprises as the champion rapidly in the afternoon. He squandered the match at the nineteenth, took the lead on the twenty-first and never was headed afterward. The baby of the tournament, Seaver, barely managed to gain a one hole lead over McPhail after trailing most of the way in the morning round. It was still a close fight at the twenty-seventh, with the Californian only 2 up, but he then won three holes in a row and the end came quickly thereafter.

PRESENT PLAN TO BEAUTIFY CAPITAL CITY

Victoria Group to Lay Plans Before Provincial Government Soon

Formation of Park Commission Is Scheme

Plans for the beautification of Victoria will be submitted to Hon. Nels Loughheed, Minister of Public Works, shortly by the Capital City Improvement Committee following a meeting of that body this afternoon.

A grant of about $25,000 yearly for the purpose will be asked, it is understood. This would be used, it is suggested, for the employment of an expert landscape architect to survey the whole city and draw up a comprehensive plan of improvement and beautification.

Formation of a park commission to direct the improvement work, either an elected or appointed body, is part of the scheme. This would enable the carrying out of an organized programme, it is felt.

Money granted by the government would be used solely for development purposes and upkeep would be in the hands of the city, it is understood. Improvement of Beacon Hill Park is one of the major schemes under consideration.

The four city members of the Legislature, Hon. J. Hinchliffe, Reginald Hayward, James Beatty and H. D. Twigg, are members of the improvement committee, which is headed by Alderman W. T. Strath, and are fully in accord with the project. It is believed. Premier Tolmie has also expressed himself favorably on the matter and high hopes are expressed that the grant will be voted at the next session of the Legislature.

British Aviatrix On Mystery Flight

MRS. VICTOR BRUCE

London, Sept. 25.—Mrs. Victor Bruce, British aviatrix, started from Reston, Middlesex Air Park, to-day, on a mystery flight aboard her single-seater Bluebird airplane.

The greatest secrecy surrounded her destination. One report credited her with the intention of flying east across Europe to Persia, India, China and Japan. Another said she would fly to Alexandria and then south to Cape Town. There was still another report that she was starting to fly around the world and would be gone three years.

West Coast Road Is Part of Scheme of Jobs For Unemployed

Hon. N. S. Loughheed Indicates Vancouver Island Highway Extension Included in Works to Be Given Federal Aid

Vancouver, Sept. 25.—Development of the West Coast of Vancouver Island as one of Canada's major tourist resorts is a policy to which the Federal and provincial governments and the Canadian Pacific Railway are devoting considerable thought.

Hon. N. S. Loughheed, provincial Minister of Public Works, and E. W. Beatty, president of the C.P.R., conferred in the Hotel Vancouver to-day on the question of building what is known as the West Coast Highway.

Mr. Loughheed announced the road would figure in the programme shortly to be launched for unemployment relief purposes.

President Beatty announced his company intended by advertising and otherwise to assist the development of the West Coast.

"If these efforts result in an increase in the traffic to this territory, the company can be relied on to augment its fleet and improve its facilities wherever justified," he said.

He also said highway and steamship facilities were the best suited to the purpose of affording communication with Long Beach, about fifteen miles north of Port Alberni, where it is expected one of the major developments will take place. Mr. Beatty and his party, who visited the West Coast within the last week, expressed themselves as enthusiastic about the beauties of Long Beach.

WEST COAST PARK

The third link in the chain in the Federal government's decision to develop a park on the West Coast. For that an area south of Barkley Sound was favored, said Mr. Loughheed to-day, because the largest area is free of settlement and containing the desirable attractions was there available.

With the flight from Quebec City to Porteau Bay means the clearing of an additional day from the time ordinarily consumed in delivery.

The planes, each carrying some 500 pounds of first class mail, and pilots Schneider and Saunders of the Canadian Airways, Montreal, left Quebec City Wednesday morning and landed in the Strait of Belle Isle at sundown. The half ton of mail was transferred from the Empress of Australia, which continued on its way. Among the mail transferred was a message of greetings from Postmaster-General Arthur Seavey, to Premier R. B. Bennett, who along with other members of the Canadian delegation to the Imperial Conference in London is aboard the Empress of Australia.

PROBLEM OF WHEAT BEFORE THE CABINET

Federal Ministers Discuss Marketing and Soviet Grain Dumping

Will Decide If Canada Is to Aid Chicago Investigation

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—The wheat situation and the question of Canada's participation in the investigation into Soviet short selling on the Chicago grain market were subjects before the Cabinet when it met this afternoon with Sir George Perley presiding as Acting Prime Minister in the absence of Hon. R. B. Bennett.

Sir George carried to the meeting a telegram from Hamilton, Fla. J. R. Bennett, chairman of the United States Congress Committee investigating Communist activities, suggesting Canada send a representative to participate in the inquiry.

But he and his fellow ministers had discussed the suggestion, the Acting Premier said he preferred to make no statement in respect to it.

CO-OPERATION PLANNED

The telegram from Mr. Fish to Mr. Bennett mentioned the Prime Minister had suggested Canada's co-operation with the United States in investigating the causes of low wheat prices. In this connection it was recalled here that Mr. Bennett, speaking in the House of Commons, made specific mention of an investigation by the United States Farm Board and its officers. He added, however, "as well as by others," which might be regarded as a reference to the investigation by the committee of Congress.

CONSIDER ALL REPORTS

The gravity of the wheat market situation as it affects Canada is very much in the mind of the government. Premier Bennett, before he left for England, described it as a problem of the "greatest magnitude." He would not rest content, he said, until every effort had been made by the government to improve conditions. Consequently any matter bearing on the situation is sure of engaging the attention of the Cabinet.

WOMAN STABBED AFTER ARGUMENT

Mrs. Lee Fong, Chinese, Suffers Injury to Head From Knife

Mrs. Lee Fong, Chinese, aged fifty-nine, is in the Jubilee Hospital to-day with a severe wound in the back of her head, following a stabbing affray last evening at 889 1/2 Pandora.

After investigating the case, police believe the affray was the outcome of an altercation between Mrs. Lee and her daughter in regard to the male company kept by the girl.

A bloodstained axe and knife were found.

Mrs. Lee, who was attended by Dr. Walter Bapty, will be confined to hospital for several weeks with her injuries, it is thought.

SPELL OF RAINY WEATHER DUE

Wind May Reach Proportions of Moderate Gale Here

Generally rainy weather here is expected as the result of an ocean storm centred off Prince Rupert. F. Napier Denison, superintendent of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory at Comox, stated this morning.

Stormy weather and heavy rains will prevail on the northern coast, and it is possible the wind may reach the proportions of a moderate gale eastward. Storm warnings have not been posted here, however, as it is not expected to be a serious gale.

"It is a little early in the year for bad storms," Mr. Denison said, "but will probably have plenty of rain, which will be welcomed."

LADY CAMERON DIED TO-DAY IN VANCOUVER

Widow of Lieut-Governor of Manitoba Lived For Years in Victoria

Vancouver, Sept. 25.—Lady Margaret Cameron, widow of Sir Douglas Cameron, one-time Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, died here to-day at the home of her son, Leslie F. Cameron. Death was sudden, caused by heart trouble.

Since the death of her husband nine years ago, Lady Cameron had lived a retired life in Victoria and Vancouver.

BORN IN ONTARIO

Born in Ontario April 23, 1856, she was educated and spent her girlhood in Montreal. Following her marriage in 1879, she moved to Manitoba, and for many years resided in Winnipeg.

Besides her son, Leslie Cameron, she is survived by two other children, D. Lorne Cameron, Vancouver, and Mrs. Homer Dixon, Victoria.

A funeral service will be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in St. Mary's Church. Following the ceremony the remains will be cremated, and the ashes taken by the sons to Winnipeg, where they will be laid beside the grave of the late Sir Douglas Cameron.

Lady Cameron had lived in Victoria for some years, first at the Empress Hotel and more recently at The Angela, alternating her residence here with visits to her sons in Vancouver.

SCHOBER CABINET IN AUSTRIA QUILTS

Vienna, Sept. 25.—Chancellor Schober and the entire Austrian cabinet resigned this afternoon.

The resignation, which was announced by the press, was the result of a vote of no confidence in the cabinet by the National Assembly.

Chancellor Schober, who had been in office for over a year, was the first of the cabinet to resign. He was followed by the other members of the cabinet.

MOTOR LAUNCH PARTY TO DARE THE ATLANTIC

Boston, Sept. 25.—Three daring voyagers planning to cross the Atlantic to Ireland in a 30-foot motor launch, despite the approach of autumn, are in the city to-day, having completed the first leg of their voyage from Bronson, Michigan.

The voyagers are Joe Leppich, August Kubota and Christian Bruto.

On leaving Boston, the three propose to set out for Halifax, N.S., where they plan to stock their craft with food and fuel before the start for Galway, Ireland.

POOL OF NEWSPRINT MILLS IN CANADA IS BREAKING UP

Canadian Press

New York, Sept. 25.—John H. Price, chairman of the board of governors of the Newsprint Institute of Canada, to-day announced his resignation. Persistent disaffection of member firms to adhere to the rules of the Institute made it impossible for him to continue in office, he said.

Lieut.-Col. Price charged that members of the Institute persistently conducted operations outside of the Institute, which were in violation of the rules of that body and unfair to other members.

With his resignation, which he said was not subject to reconsideration, he sent advice that the firm of Price Brothers and Company Limited intended to adopt whatever independent policy it saw fit to protect the interests of its shareholders against the aggression on the part of members of the Institute.

Recently, however, Col. Price said, there was a growing tendency among members to scramble for markets and disregard the rules of the Institute.

University Education Growing In Importance Say Beatty and Currie

McGill Graduates Hear Chancellor, Principal and Dr. W. W. Chipman at Banquet at Empress Hotel; University Has Made Vast Strides During Last Decade and Has Achieved Notable Position; Bright Future Looms.

"We will keep the McGill degree a good degree; we will add a knowledge of theory to a foundation of proved principles so that McGill men and women throughout the world may continue to be a credit to their alma mater." In these words Sir Arthur Currie, G.C.M.G., principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, emphasized an illuminating address to over sixty Victoria graduates of the university at a dinner given in honor of the visiting McGill dignitaries at the Empress Hotel yesterday evening.

E. W. Beatty, K.C., LL.D., chancellor of the university, and Dr. W. W. Chipman, emeritus professor of gynecology and obstetrics also spoke, while the McGill Board of Governors was represented by Sir Charles Blair Gordon G.B.E.

Ira Dilworth, president of the local association, welcomed the guests and expressed the appreciation of the local graduates at being able to renew their association with their beloved alma mater in such a fortunate way. He hoped the dinner would become a regular annual affair while the Canadian Pacific tour continued.

COVER ALL ANGLES
Every angle of the life of the university was included in the three speeches. Sir Arthur told of the amazing progress, physical and academic, achieved by the university since he became principal in 1920, and outlined the nature of future progress. Dr. Chipman dealt with the activities of the medical faculty of McGill, which he described as "unequaled by any medical school in the world," and Mr. Beatty described by Dr. Chipman as the "academic militant," blended the academic with the practical to show the increasing part played by the

ROYAL CITY OLD-TIMER OF B.C. DIES

James B. Kennedy, Ex-M.P. and Ex-M.P.P., Succumbs at Eighty-six

Canadian Press
New Westminster, Sept. 25.—Pioneer legislator, traveler and outstanding citizen, James Buchanan Kennedy, eighty-six, died late yesterday afternoon at the home of his stepdaughter, Mrs. T. B. Green, Fifth Street, New Westminster. As he had been in failing health for some time and gradually had grown weaker during the last few days, his death was not unexpected.

While the late Mr. Kennedy was best known throughout the Province and in the east through having represented the constituency in which he resided, and in the House of Commons, his activities as a lumberman, public-spirited citizen, churchman and in fraternal orders had stamped him as the Royal City's most widely-known resident.

Besides the widow he leaves a stepson, H. M. Lloyd of Vancouver; a stepdaughter, Mrs. T. B. Green of this city; two sisters, Mrs. J. C. Reid of Vancouver, and Mrs. W. A. McIntosh of Ottawa. A son, Clarence, died here some years ago.

FUNERAL SATURDAY
The funeral will be held on Saturday, a private service at the home being followed by a service in Knox Presbyterian Church at 3 p.m. Interment will be in the I.O.O.F. Cemetery.

Mr. Kennedy was born in Ottawa (then called Bytown) February 23, 1844, a son of Donald Kennedy and his wife, Janet Buchanan, both Scottish born. He received his early education in Ottawa, but at the age of twelve he left school and moved to a farm three miles outside the city. For twelve years he remained on the farm.

One winter he was engaged in hauling sand and brick on Blackrock Hill (now Parliament Hill) for the Parliament Buildings, then under construction.

In 1868 young Kennedy left the farm for the term year employed in lumbering with A. H. Baldwin, then operating at Ottawa.

TO B.C. IN 1877
In the spring of 1877 he came to British Columbia.

From 1880 to 1904 Mr. Kennedy represented New Westminster in the Provincial Legislature at Victoria. In 1904 he was elected to the House of Commons, representing the New Westminster riding of Ottawa until 1908. He was a Liberal.

During his active life he filled several other elective positions, at times being an alderman and school trustee in the Royal City, a member of the pilotage board and a director of the R. A. and I. Society.

For more than forty years he belonged to the Knights of Pythias, being a charter member of No. 3 lodge, and for one term grand chancellor for British Columbia. A strong Presbyterian, Mr. Kennedy was senior member of the session of Knox Church, Sapperton.

AT BIG CONVENTIONS
As a member of the board of trade of New Westminster, Mr. Kennedy had the distinction of attending three major conventions. These were the International Chambers of Commerce gatherings, one at London in 1910, the next at Basel and the last at Paris in 1912. Mr. Kennedy happened to be in those cities at the time, and was given credentials by the New Westminster board as a delegate. He was the only western Canadian representative at the two last-named conventions.

HITLER WOULD HAVE GERMANY TEAR UP PACTS

Tells Judge What Fascists Would Do If They Should Gain Power in Republic

Ready to Adopt Illegal Means to End Treaty of Versailles

Leipzig, Germany, Sept. 25.—Adolf Hitler, German Fascist generalissimo, today declared that just as soon as the German Fascists by legal means could capture political power in Germany they would tear saunter the Treaty of Versailles, if necessary, by means looked upon by the world as illegal.

His sensational announcement of purpose was made at the trial of three Reichswehr officers on charges of high treason, to which he had been summoned as a witness.

"The National Socialists do not regard the international agreements as law but as something forced upon us," he said. "Germany is gagged by the peace treaties. We do not acknowledge our guilt in the war, and especially not the guilt of future generations. When we shall oppose these treaties by every possible means, we shall find ourselves in the midst of revolution."

AFTER THREE ELECTIONS
He shall oppose these treaties both diplomatically and by completely evading them. That may be looked upon by the world as an illegal method, but we will not employ it until the party has been victorious. After two or three more elections our party will be in the majority.

"The National Socialist movement will pursue its aims within the state with means prescribed by the constitution. The constitution, however, prescribes only the method and not the final end. We will make our party the decisive factor by means of the law-making bodies, but at the moment our party has the power we will mould the state in the form we consider the right one."

CHEERS GIVEN
When Hitler arrived at the courtroom a dense crowd outside the building greeted him with the thrice repeated shout, "All hail," in the usual Fascist fashion.

Outside the courtroom the Fascist slogan, "Germany awakes," continued to be heard as the trial got under way.

When the car carrying Hitler and some of his followers stopped outside the court attempted to break the police cordon in their enthusiasm for him, but failed. They then intoned battle songs.

From the recent general election in Germany the Fascists, or National Socialists as they are named, emerged with the second strongest group in the Reichstag. The largest group is made up of Social Democrats, who in a coalition with others form the Bruening government.

Addressing the court today, Hitler expanded in detail the aim of his party to create a new German state by a bloodless constitutional revolution.

Beginning quietly, with his hands folded in front of him, Hitler became more emotional as he proceeded. On the whole, however, his manner was dignified and restrained.

Cheered outside by a large throng of Fascists, Hitler could hear his followers cheering and singing as he began his testimony, while inside there was a tendency in the crowded courtroom to applaud the speaker.

Hitler technically was called into court as a defence witness for three hours, but he was charged with high treason, but extraordinary interest was aroused because it gave him an opportunity to state the whole Fascist case before a listening Germany and world.

ARMED REVOLT NOT NEEDED
Again and again he stated with emphasis and emotion that he was planning no armed revolt. "We do not need a bloodless revolution," he said. "All we need is another election."

Student Who Attempted to Kill Italian Crown Prince Tried in Brussels

Brussels, Belgium, Sept. 25.—Fernando de Rosa, young Italian student, today said he had been charged with attempted murder of the Italian crown prince, Prince Umberto, in Rome last October in Brussels. Rosa was on trial today for the offense.

After the selection of a jury and the usual preliminaries, Rosa was asked to explain why he had attempted to kill the crown prince. He launched into a discourse in fluent French, starting with an account of his enlistment as a young boy under the Fascist banner and describing how he had become convinced Fascism meant disregard of the public liberties.

DEFENDING LIBERTIES
"I am a patriot resolved to defend my country's liberties," he said, "and I became anti-Fascist after I had witnessed crimes committed by the Fascists against their political enemies without discrimination whether they were Conservatives, Socialists, Communists or Free Masons. Why did I want to kill the Prince? Because he identifies himself with enemies of the Italian people's liberty and is prepared to govern Italy under Fascist rule."

"You wonder why I did not choose Italy to commit my deed. An attempt to kill the Prince at Turin would have meant exposing all my friends and relatives to the peril of being held responsible for my crime. I did not want to kill for the pleasure of killing, but because I was convinced it was necessary to show the world Italians are not satisfied with the Fascist policy."

SOVIET HOPES DUMPING AIDS REVOLUTIONS

Canadian Press
New York, Sept. 25.—Dumping of wheat and other goods abroad is characterized as a fixed policy of the Soviet Government, with the object of undermining foreign markets and fomenting revolution abroad, by Basil W. Delagass, until recently vice-president of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, Soviet commercial agency in this country.

Mr. Delagass resigned from the Amtorg Corporation in protest against the Soviet policy and its alleged programme of withdrawing trade from the United States with the object of forcing recognition of the Stalin regime. He said he was resigning and refused to go to Moscow for an explanation. Mr. Delagass was sentenced to death by the Soviet Government and his property ordered confiscated.

STRANGE SPECTACLE
"Russia today presents the extraordinary spectacle of a country being starved and impoverished by a government pursuing the fantastic policy of depriving its own people of the things they desperately need in order to dump them abroad at cheap prices as a means of creating disorganization, discontent and revolution in other countries," said Mr. Delagass. "To be sure, there is also another aim to this policy, that of obtaining capital for the Soviet industrialization plan, but the two go together."

"It is certainly an unprecedented performance to see a government so lacking in self-respect as to engage in short-sale wheat operations on foreign markets, but the Soviet Government is an extraordinary organization and anything may be expected from it," Mr. Delagass added.

Mr. Delagass made the direct charge that "the Soviet Government is engaged in systematic dumping operations with the object of fomenting world revolution by helping on the collapse of European and American markets."

DIFFICULT TO STOP IT
"When you consider the general economic and financial situation abroad, the widespread unemployment, the depression of agriculture, it would be rash to say Soviet Russia's tactics can do no damage," he said. "At the same time it may be difficult to stop this dumping."

"The only country which need not fear it seriously is the United States, because of the strength of its economic position. But here, too, the matter cannot be waved aside lightly. While I am against a general embargo on Russian imports, and favor the development of Russo-American trade, I do think the importation of Soviet convict-made goods, such as lumber and pulpwood, should be stopped. There is recognition of the Stalin regime, and the goods produced by convict labor."

Mr. Delagass declared dumping of wheat by the Soviet Government abroad is already a fact—the Ukraine, for example," he said. "Yet the Soviet Government is quite content to export grain and let the Russian people starve."

FOURTEEN MEN ARE ELECTED TO WORLD COURT

Sir Cecil Hurst of Britain and Kellogg of U.S. Are Among Judges Named

Canadian Press
Geneva, Sept. 25.—Sir Cecil Hurst, of Great Britain; Frank B. Kellogg, former United States Secretary of State, and twelve other men, including two Latin-Americans, were elected to the bench in separate votes of both the Assembly and the Council of the League of Nations.

For the fifteenth position on the court, two other Latin-Americans and European were the candidates as balloting progressed in the afternoon without any decisive results.

Election of the judges was in accordance with a new statute of the League providing for an increase in the membership from eleven to fifteen. Those elected today will begin nine-year terms January 1 next. Kellogg already is a member of the court. The following were elected on the first ballot in separate votes of both the Assembly and the Council:

Frank B. Kellogg, United States.
Antonio Sanchez de Bustamante, Cuba.
J. Gustavo Guerrero, San Salvador.
Mitsumichi Adachi, Japan.
Rafael Altamira Y. Creves, Spain.
Dionisio Anzilotti, Italy.
Willem Van Eysinga, Holland.

Quebec Police Hunt Murderer And Man's Body

Richmond, Que., Sept. 25.—Convinced they are dealing with a case of murder, provincial detectives are seeking the body of Edmond Trudeau, fifty-nine, farmer, who lived on a lonely farm at Riverview, a village thirteen miles south of here. Trudeau was missed from his home Sunday and a blood-covered cap, which was declared to have belonged to him, was found by a river some distance from his home on Tuesday.

Investigation at his home showed he was not there, but that his bedroom was bespattered with blood. There was a trail of blood leading to the front door, which seemed to indicate the body had been carried out.

The investigators set to work to search the bushes about the house and by the river, but failed to discover the body or any clues. To-day the river will be dragged.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over fifty years. (Adv.)

BURWASH NOW AT WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Sept. 25.—After a disappearance for two days in the Manitoba lake country, Major L. T. Burwash, Arctic explorer, flew to Winnipeg today. He landed on the Red River at 9:30 a.m. in a Fokker seaplane, piloted by J. McDonough. The machine had hopped off from The Pas early Tuesday morning.

The plane was delayed along the east shore of Lake Winnipeg by head winds and rain.

Major Burwash is taking back to Ottawa the tale of his visit to the Magnetic Pole, far beyond Arctic Circle, and of his discovery of the eighty-year-old camps of the Franklin expedition, which perished on King William Island off the north shore of Canada.

Pilot McDonough on arrival stated he "was taking no chances" with his noted passenger aboard and had pulled in to shelter along the shore of Lake Winnipeg over two nights. The first stop from The Pas, he said, had taken them only to Grand Rapids, at the northwest end of the lake, about 120 miles from The Pas. The next day they flew to Fort Alexander, at the southeast corner of the lake, a hop of some 260 miles across the lake.

Today the fliers got away at dawn and had only an easy 100-mile jaunt to Winnipeg.

PRAIRIE LEADERS GO TO OTTAWA ON WORKS MISSION

Premier Bracken to State Manitoba's Employment Plans

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—Deputations from the governments of two prairie provinces will confer with Senator G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, in connection with unemployment relief.

Headed by Premier John Bracken, a deputation from Manitoba is now on its way to Ottawa and will meet the minister Saturday. Arrangements have been made for a deputation from Alberta to come next week.

Premier J. E. Brownlee has written Senator Robertson advising him of the visit of the Alberta representatives. Whether Mr. Brownlee will come himself has not been announced.

BRACKEN TO STATE PLANS

Winnipeg, Sept. 25.—Premier John Bracken of Manitoba, who sat through a week of parleys on agricultural distress and unemployment, is bound for Ottawa to-day to ask for aid from the Federal Government. The series of conferences which closed just before the premier's departure yesterday evening settled the question of Manitoba's needs.

Two million dollars out of the Dominion's $20,000,000 unemployment fund should be Manitoba's share, the premier believes. Moreover, his conference convinced him the Dominion's offer of 25 per cent aid for construction work by suburban municipalities

ITALY-FRANCE NAVAL DEBATE IS NOW ENDED

France Desired to Build Fifty Per Cent More Than Italy

Rome, Sept. 25.—Italy-French naval conversations at Geneva have been broken off completely, according to a spokesman of the Foreign Office. The hitch was declared here yesterday evening to have come over a French counter-proposal whereby France, between 1930 and 1933, would be allowed to build naval vessels on a basis of one and one-half units to Italy's one.

It was pointed out here that Italy had proposed the joint meeting of naval experts which met in Paris August 18. Italy also suggested inclusion of the French, but France objected. The Italians proposed the number of naval units as well as tonnage be considered. Italy, the spokesman said, made considerable concessions to the French and, on the whole, the French seemed to like the plan, which did not, however, amount to giving parity to the two powers.

The scene of discussion was transferred to Geneva, where the French expert suddenly produced a counter-proposal giving France the right to build up to one and one-half of Italy's strength in six years.

The Italians, admitting they had taken the initiative in ending the negotiations, pointed out it was Foreign Minister Grandi, in a Chamber of Deputies speech last May, who suggested the discussion and who, in his Senate speech, launched the idea of a naval holiday.

BANK ROBBED IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Sept. 25.—Binding four victims and locking the fourth in a vault, three robbers yesterday looted a branch of the Citizens National Bank here of virtually every cent it contained, approximately $7,000.

Thomasville, Ga., Sept. 25.—Willie Kirkland, twenty-year-old negro convict, said to have been identified by a nine-year-old school girl as the man who had attempted to attack her, was lynched here early to-day.

CREDENTIALS PRESENTED

Tokio, Sept. 25.—W. Cameron Forbes, new United States Ambassador to Japan, accompanied by the Embassy staff, to-day went to the Imperial palace, where he presented his credentials to Emperor Hirohito.

MR. FERGUSON'S BAD BREAK

MUSSOLINI HAD BETTER LOOK TO his laurels; Premier Ferguson has introduced a system of dealing with at least one newspaper in Toronto which smacks of Fascist methods of muzzling the press. Before he left for London the other day he issued a declaration informing The Toronto Star—which enjoys the largest circulation of any newspaper in Canada—that unless it agreed to retract a news article dealing with the Ontario cabinet reorganization, its reporters would be prevented from getting any more information from the Parliament Buildings in Queen's Park.

But The Star refuses to jump through the hoop at the crack of Mr. Ferguson's whip. It declines to retract the article because it believes it was "a fair and legitimate story of a stormy political situation based upon such reports and information as were available on the occasion." The offending phrase in the article in question was that in which Hon. Dr. Godfrey, Minister of Health, whom Mr. Ferguson dismissed, was represented as having declared: "I won't resign, Ferguson," and in which Dr. Godfrey's stand was said to have delayed cabinet reorganization.

One of The Star's contemporaries quotes the following from the Premier:

"I am prepared to issue instructions to every department head, cabinet minister and every official of the buildings to refuse The Star news and not let their representatives in any office. Further, I will fire anyone who disobeys the instructions and does give them news. In doing this and demanding a retraction I am determined to show the people of the province that what they read in The Star regarding Queen's Park is neither authentic nor official."

The Star naturally recognizes that Mr. Ferguson can go on giving the instructions he refers to; but thinks that on reflection he will decide that his efforts would be unavailing, the implication, of course, being that such an ably-conducted institution as The Star promptly would devise ways and means of getting all the information it desired from Queen's Park, while any ministerial declaration that such news was unofficial would carry very little weight with The Star's 182,000 daily readers.

Mr. Ferguson probably realizes by this time that about all the effect his action has had upon The Star has been to furnish it with a good deal of amusement. For if there is one thing a newspaper rather relishes it is an embargo of this kind, because it furnishes test to its activities. It redoubles its efforts, and often gets more news than the author of the embargo wants published.

An outstanding case in point was the conflict between the government of Russia, under the old regime, and The London Times. That journal's representative at St. Petersburg was M. de Blowitz, whose dispatches to London began to annoy the Tsar's advisers so much that they ordered the journalist out of the country. The upshot was that The Times continued to publish news from Russia, much that was a good deal more irritating to the Russian government than the dispatches de Blowitz had been sending before the ban fell. After a comparatively short interval The Times was invited to send its representative back to Russia.

Mr. Ferguson will find, therefore, that The Toronto Star will follow the customary procedure among barred newspapers—redouble its efforts and continue to publish news from Ontario's Parliament Buildings.

A RAIN IN SEPTEMBER

IT IS BOTH SINGULAR AND DEPRESSING that in all of the years since men gained a partial degree of civilization they have never yet found any way of doing anything really effective about autumn rains.

To practically every other variety of weather there is some sort of answer. In sweltering summer days one can—if lucky—sit in the shade with a fan and sip a cool drink; or at the very worst one can climb into the bath tub. In winter blizzards it is simple to go down and shake up the furnace. A January thaw can be balked by the simple expedient of stay-in-doors, or by donning heavy galoshes when one goes out. A spring or a summer rain is nothing so long as one is not actually out in it without an umbrella.

But an autumn rain is not so easily checkmated. You can stay inside until it blows over; but the melancholy, down-in-the-dumps feeling that it engenders will pursue you to your lair, no matter how tightly you close your windows. An autumn rain, in fact, is not a meteorological phenomenon at all; it is a state of mind, and there is no escaping it.

It is on rainy days in late September that suburban housewives begin to feel that staying at home every day is a sorry lot. It is on such days that people in city office buildings rebel against the fate that chains them to their places. It is on such days that school children are moved to heretical thoughts, and farmers dream of escaping from their damp acres, and policemen wish that they had become radio announcers or something.

But there is nothing that can be done about it. We can only hope that the rain does not give us a cold, and make the best of it. But the best is a very miserable best.

For the rain of autumn is a negation of all the things by which we live; a disquieting reminder that the world is excessively imperfect, a hint that those bright promises of last July may have been base deceptions. It displays Nature in a mood that is devoid of either hope or energy. It is raining, one feels, because there is not much sense—the universe being what it is—in doing anything else.

That, in fact, is the discouraging thing about it all. The autumn rain is so soulless. A January storm is not so bad; for it at least has a vindictive, spiteful fury, and one can sustain his manhood by resolving to buck it. A sweltering August day, at the very worst, bespeaks the eternal fecundity of the teeming earth. But a rainy September day is simply the fog end of everything; a gloomy reminder of the mortality of all created things.

However, we shall doubtless live through it. Very likely a moist September is essential to winter wheat, or something. Even if it is not, we still have the somewhat barren comfort of reflecting that October, with its blazing woodlands and its hazy fields, will soon be along.

YOUTH IN REVOLT?

WAS THE MOST SIGNIFICANT FEATURE of the recent General elections the striking swing to the Left and Right? In a general way it may be in order to answer this question in the affirmative. But the vote suggests that other considerations ought to be taken into account.

It was a record vote. Approximately eighty-five per cent of the electorate cast a ballot. Hence, it is obvious that young men and young women, between the ages of twenty-one and thirty, turned out in force. What was their reaction to the virtual dictatorship set up by President von Hindenburg? Is it not reasonable to suggest that this considerable element of the population, sensible of the burden of the obligations bequeathed them by their pre-war rulers, staged a revolt—not a revolt, perhaps, which they could justify, but none the less a "kicking over the traces" which is produced by a sense of injustice, however indefinable it may be?

After all, it is only natural that the young men and young women who were just emerging from their swaddling clothes between 1914 and 1918 should vote by such means as may be at hand—usually a vote against the government—conditions they consider inimical to their welfare, conditions they think, unreasonably, perhaps, should not exist. The Fascists are opposed to the Young plan of reparations payments. Say the newly-enfranchised: "Why should we have to pay all this money for something for which we were not responsible? Again: 'Why not vote for the Communists, they have their own plans for the correction of conditions to the creation of which we were not a party?'"

This may or may not be the state of mind existent in young Germany to-day. But whatever may be the cause of the growth of Fascism and Communism in that country, the point to be remembered is that war on the scale of that fought between 1914 and 1918 is the most futile method of settling international disputes, and the surest way of destroying the morale of nations, whether they be adjudged on the losing or winning side.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

CANADIAN AND AMERICAN JUSTICE
The Mail and Empire (Toronto)

Commenting upon the difference between Canadian and American methods of meting out justice to criminals, The New York Times observes that Americans "familiar with the tanglefoot process of our crime punishing methods . . . will look obviously towards Canada, where, in a magistrate's court, without delay, technical legal pleadings, political influence, and countless appeals, quick justice can be done and the fear of the law put in the hearts of evil-doers." The Times calls upon the American legal machine to deal more promptly and effectively with crime and, to this end, it advocates a divorce between the courts and politics. It even goes so far as to speak of "legal rackets" as being a particularly evil factor in local government in the United States. In quoting these statements from an American newspaper, we do not suggest that Canadians should assume a pharisaical attitude towards their neighbors in the United States. Our courts are not open to the charge of political influence, nor are our judges elected. But there has of late been some delay in tracking down murderers and bringing them to punishment.

ZIONISTS WOULD CO-OPERATE

The Canadian Jewish Chronicle

In a speech that appears to pave the way for a rapprochement with the Arabs and with the British government, Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist Organization and of the Jewish Agency, created a sensation when, in using the word "bi-national" for the first time in referring to Palestine, he declared that "we must agree to Palestine becoming a bi-national state. It is impossible to continue the talk about a Jewish State as we did during the period when the world was engaged in war. Our present slogan must be 'peaceful co-operation.'" Dr. Weizmann said, "We cannot drive the Arabs out of Palestine. Two nations must exist in Palestine." He told the actions committee that the Zionists had now submitted a detailed memorandum to the British government regarding their demands, but that while "we have won friends and have spoken sharply to the government, England also has to deal with the Moslem World in India and Egypt."

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

The Victoria Daily Times September 25, 1905

Senator Templeman returned to the city on Saturday evening, the sittings of the tariff commission having been suspended for a few days. The members of the commission are at present at Banff, where they will remain for three or four days.

George Maxwell, son of the late G. R. Maxwell, who represented Vancouver in the Dominion House of Commons for several years, arrived from San Francisco yesterday afternoon by the steamer City of Pueblo.

Cowichan was en fête on Saturday, the occasion being the annual exhibition under the auspices of the agricultural association of that district.

The Irish Guards' Band, after a most successful tour of eastern cities, will begin a two nights' engagement at the Drill Hall this evening, and, judging from the way tickets for the concert have been selling, there is every prospect of the large building being filled.

Weather forecast: Victoria and vicinity—Fresh to strong easterly winds, shifting to westerly, unsettled and colder, with rain.

A victory for Victoria United was the result of the football game played between the Garrison and local eleven at Oak Bay on Saturday afternoon. The score was two goals to nil.

Loose Ends

We see three deer and three galant hunters—We save the former and foot the latter—And we resolve to retire some time.

By H. B. W.

EVERYWHERE ON our island these days you may see the evidence that our race has not lost its old-time vigor and fortitude. Everywhere fearless hunters can be seen stalking the ferocious deer and the fierce grouse, with red hats on their heads lest they stalk one another, which, when you come to think of it, is a strange reflection on the craft of hunters generally. Apparently they cannot trust one another to look before they fire.

ANYWAY, WE came upon such a party of hunters where the Cowichan flows through its great woods of maple and alder. But just before we came upon them we saw three deer, two young bucks with their little horns just beginning to mark their manhood, and an old doe, who eyed us knowingly, for she could see that we were friends. (Our only weapons were fishing poles with worms dangling ignominiously from them.) They let us walk to within perhaps ten yards of them and then they strolled quietly away less in fear, we thought, than in contempt for people would cast worms upon the sacred Cowichan.

WELL, JUST as the deer were leaving three gallant hunters in their red hats and armed with high-powered rifles, came floundering out of the bush not fifteen feet from the point where the deer had entered. They were not and tired and disgusted. They swore very wicked oaths and they said that there were no deer within ten miles for they had tramped all day without a shot. Not far off we could hear the two young bucks and the old doe quietly wandering away through the woods. They must have passed within a few yards of these gentlemen with the red hats. So we sorrowed with the hunters over the disappearance of our game and told them nothing of what we had seen until the deer were well out of range. And though we caught no fish in the Cowichan, though we waded up to our middles in cold water and ruined our shoes, though we sat in wet clothes the rest of the afternoon, still, we felt that our day had been well spent, for we had saved three animals from destruction and we had witnessed the disappearance of three of our own kind who deserved it.

BUT IT WASN'T the deer and the hunters of the Cowichan that I intended to write, that, after all, can interest only a few timid souls, those who lack that splendid courage necessary to venture into the woods armed only with a rifle to face the dangers of deer and other hunters. What I had intended to write is of the Cowichan country itself, for we never go to the exquisite valley without a new feeling of discontent, discontent, I mean, with the place where we live, wherever it may be. How any man can wander about Cowichan, on its bewildering little side roads, beside its broad acres of golden fields, into its deep woods, past its vine-covered homes, how any man can wander about Cowichan without yearning to come here and forget everything I cannot imagine.

WITH US THERE is no difficulty in deciding immediately that when we retire and stop writing for the newspapers and live a respectable life in our old age, we shall come here. The only difficulty is in deciding which place we shall buy. Every one seems more delighted than the preceding one until, after several scores of visits, we know every little road, every farm house, every hay stack in Cowichan and we have resolved at various times to buy all of them.

WE ARE WAVERING now between a house which sits on a hill and looks over acres and acres of fields, those the green oats grow in the summer, leaving their rich brown stubble in the fall, where great oak trees and occasional maples stand alone, wide-grained and sleek, where you can see the square top of Salt Spring Island, and the distant straits of Cowichan Bay in the distance and all around the blue, timber-clad hills which fringe the valley—we are hesitating. I say, between this and a little cottage which sits alone among the maples with a little garden of old-fashioned flowers and a modicum of the spring, summer, autumn, and winter, and a few peonies in the summer, and masses of red chrysanthemums in the autumn—so placed that you can look through the trees far down the long stretch of Maple Bay shimmering in the sunshine. We are hesitating between these two, but by the time we have made up our mind and are ready to retire, half a century hence, the Cowichan that we know probably will have disappeared altogether.

ALAS, TO RETIRE into this green and pleasant land must be a dream for most of us. It is reserved for a specially favored race of beings who, strangely enough, seem to take it for granted. But much nonsense and many libels are written about the people of Cowichan. I had it only last week from a citizen of Cowichan that the vulgar conception of the people of Cowichan as men who hunted, fished, played tennis and drank tea was outrageous, which is obvious, when you look at the appearance of their well-kept land, their pleasant homes, their fat cattle, and their fuzzy sheep by the roadside.

THE FARMERS of Cowichan whom you will meet on the tennis court down by the old Corfield ranch at 4 o'clock in the afternoon have arisen at 4 a.m. and done a day's work before the rest of us were awake, so my informant declared. And as likely as not these same brawny, sun-tanned fellows will be found dancing at the Agricultural Hall in the evening as if they needed the exercise. What a climate, what a country, what a bracing and wine-like air to breed such a race! Were it not for the necessity of filling this column every day and my dislike of rising at 4 a.m. I should retire into the verdant depths of Cowichan tomorrow and live happily ever afterwards. A man could grow old there without complaining, almost without knowing it, indeed, and sleep content beside the old wooden church on the hillside where the dogwood trees drip crimson leaves among the gravestones and there is an abiding sense of peace, of fulfillment, a feeling that here in Cowichan life is lived richly, and to the full, as it is not lived in many places.

TUBERCULOSIS

To the Editor:—In the press of September 13 it was announced that a Japanese scientist had "developed" an anti-tubercular serum which had effected cures with "one injection." Even the most credulous might well doubt such a claim, but it is perhaps not more preposterous than dozens of others which a gullible public is expected to accept without question.

The other day I picked up a pamphlet which has been freely distributed in this Province. It was called "Striking Facts About Tuberculosis." At the outset I read: "Tuberculosis is caused by a germ, the tubercle bacillus, which was discovered in 1882 by Robert Koch."

Now it is really a fact, and not an assumption, that this germ-theory of disease has not to this day been proved, therefore the tubercle bacillus, that tuberculosis is caused by a germ is an unproven statement. The late Dr. Charles Creighton, one of the most eminent authorities, proved conclusively that the disease is a physiological process. Koch invented his tuberculin treatment which was to be the hope of the medical profession. The result of the treatment was so tragic and caused such despair that it was named "The Sedan of Science." The happy idea occurred to a German physician, a tubercular, that the large supply of tuberculin on hand might as well be used upon cattle. Out of that decision has grown a singular condition of affairs beyond the scope of this letter, but obtaining the most credulous acceptance.

We have not yet recovered from the shock of the Lubek tragedy when dozens of healthy, new-born babies were killed by injections of Calmette's tuberculin. Latest reports placed the figure at sixty-seven, with others seriously ill. The idea was to feed the babies on bacilli from diseased cows and so protect them for life from tuberculosis. Instead of this protection we see only the tragic misery of the Lubek mothers. Professor Grotzahn (Ordinarius for Social Hygiene at Berlin University) gave his opinion on inoculation of healthy persons very plainly. He spoke of the "eagerness with which at the time the authorities recommended the protective vaccination for diptheria, although a large number of doctors considered it to be useless and the statistics, said to prove the usefulness of this inoculation, very disputable. Cars for the early recognition of the first cases and the most desirable isolation in the hospitals—these are the means the authorities should use for fighting infectious diseases. In the present state of science they can undertake no responsibility for recommending the protective vaccination of healthy children against tuberculosis or diptheria. It is said that the Lubek tragedy has had to occur in order that this opinion, which is by no means new, but which has been suppressed by the fanatics of protective vaccination, should be allowed for the general good."

Rachel has wept for her children, time and time again, over just such tragedies as that of Lubek. A few years ago a meeting on public health was held in this city and a local bacteriologist, speaking of tuberculosis, lauded the opinions of Dr. Chlovy Muthu, one of the outstanding authorities of the day on this question. Dr. Muthu is head of the famous Mendip Hill Sanatorium in England and has written upon, and studied tuberculosis for thirty years. I share in the respect for his opinions which was expressed at this meeting, and am glad to quote further from the remarks of so great an authority.

Speaking recently in London, Dr. Muthu said: "I can speak with some authority on this important question. I consider the attitude taken up by the Anti-tuberculosis League is sane, sound and scientific. In my book on tuberculosis I have shown the fallacy of supposing that microbes are the cause of disease. They are rather the consequence of disease, and in most cases our friends in carrying out life's daily processes and acting as scavengers. All inoculations and vaccines are just injecting into the body more of the same old poisons. When a sick man is already burdened with toxins it seems absurd to try to cure him by pumping more poisons into his body. Tuberculosis is a disease of vital resistance of the body. When a man is fortified with such a resisting power by right living, no microbe or disease can hurt him. . . . sanitation and hygiene, fresh air and good food give resistance to the body and keep away disease, requiring no vaccine or inoculation."

If the germ theory of disease is merely theoretical, it stands to reason that the practices that have been based upon its acceptance are also theoretical. They are therefore unreliable and probably dangerous. It is surely a reflection upon the Creator to assume that the world has been filled with death-dealing germs, that we cannot eat, sleep or breathe, or touch the simplest thing, or go about our pleasures or our business without being in deadly fear of an attack by germs! That any sane, logical, or thoughtful person should accept the dictum that "germs cause disease" is beyond my comprehension. The profit to be made out of serums and vaccines is, however, largely responsible for encouraging public credulity.

NIGHT SCHOOL TEACHERS

To the Editor:—Glancing down the list of night school teachers appointed by the Victoria School Board, I was filled with regret that at least five married women have been given positions.

These women may or may not have husbands who are earning good salaries, but it is hoped the School Board has satisfied itself on this point. When one considers the number of years these classes have been operating it is reasonable to suppose that at least a few of the coming generation are qualified for teaching such subjects as dressmaking, design, pottery, etc.

New Move In Great Britain For Penny Postage

By THOMAS CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent
London, Sept. 25.—The British Post Office will show a profit of well over

£9,000,000, or $45,000,000, this year, according to H. B. Lees-Smith, Postmaster-General. The announcement is expected to rouse the advocates of penny postage to fresh efforts. And just now newspapers are being flooded with a stream of complaints and inquiries about the services which are under control of the post office. The Postmaster-General regards these as "attacks by those who judge by political prejudice instead of results."

Dear Sirs:

Each night it's the victim of a regular hold-up. It's no matter for police action as the "bandits" are so young.

As a matter of fact, it's a willing victim. I know what the kiddies are after. The "spoils" are Life Savers. I've prepared for them a regular practice of saving along a "bank" or "top" of the easy mint.

One has to be particularly careful in the matter of candy for children. Inferior sweets are not only harmful but they are easy to err on the side of safety. Life Savers, though, are the only candy that can be liberal with Life Savers.

SAANICH WAITS ON GOVERNMENT AND PROPOSALS

Council Defers Preparation of Unemployment Policy Until Situation Clear

Pending announcement by the Federal and Provincial governments as to funds to be made available to municipalities for provision of work for unemployed, the Saanich Council yesterday evening, after holding a special session to discuss unemployment, deferred preparation of a programme of public works and suspended inquiry as to methods of financing such undertakings. A special meeting will be held next week, the date to be set by Reeve Crouch.

Councillor Crouch remarked that little additional work could be provided from the regular ward roads appropriations. When he announced he had $1,600 remaining unexpended other councillors chorused "you are lucky."

Prospects of aid from Provincial and Federal unemployment appropriations were canvassed and believed not sufficient to materially affect the situation if it should become serious. Any money offered other than as an outright gift would be of no value, it was considered, councillors claiming such advances with the unhappy experience caused Saanich by the Soldiers' Housing scheme.

PER CAPITA GRANT

Reeve Crouch believed that aid from government funds would be distributed to the municipalities on a per capita basis. It was remarked that Saanich could borrow against next year's taxes. Councillor Woods inquired as to what work could be provided to minimize unemployment if grants were received, and Reeve Crouch considered the Government would insist upon road work. Asked where the work could be done, Reeve Crouch remarked that unemployed men were chiefly residents in Wards Two and Seven. Councillors Hagan and Woods considered that work should not necessarily be adjacent to the homes of the men employed.

The Council had before it a list of ninety unemployed Saanich men, thirty being classified as unmarried. Councillor Oldfield remarked on inclusion of several Ward Five men who had not worked for years and Clerk Sewell mentioned a registration from Ward Three who had not worked for nine years.

Women's Institute Meets at Langford

Langford

An invitation is given to Langford card players to attend a card party at the Luxton Hall on Saturday, September 27, at 8 o'clock.

The Harvest Festival services will be held in St. Matthew's Church on Sunday, September 27 at 8 a.m.; Holy Communion at 7.30 o'clock. Rev. A. E. de L. Nunna, vicar of St. Mary's, will be the preacher at the evening service. Special music and an anthem will be rendered.

Gifts and fruit, vegetables and flowers should be sent to St. Matthew's Church by 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. Helpers for decorating will be welcomed. The fruit and vegetables received will be sent to aid the Friendly Help Society in Victoria on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. F. Bullen, Mrs. M. A. Hinde, Mrs. L. M. A. Savory and G. H. Phipps (Miss L. M. A. Savory) represented the committee of St. Matthew's Church at a joint meeting of the councils held on Tuesday evening. Arrangements were made for a harvest home supper for residents of Langford and Colwood to be held in the Colwood Hall at 7 o'clock on the evening of October 3. Anyone wishing to send contributions should communicate with one of the above committee members. An entertainment will follow the supper.

Langford, Sept. 25.—The monthly meeting of the Langford Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon in the hall on Dunford Road.

Dr. Dalziel presided over a splendid attendance of members and friends. The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. P. N. Welch gave the minutes and financial statement of the recent flower show which was considered very satisfactory. Mrs. H. A. Hinks proposed on behalf of the members a hearty vote of thanks to the directors for their untiring efforts on behalf of the Institute. Mrs. W. T. Brindley, Mrs. Henry Pike, Mrs. George Eldridge, Mrs. L. G. Wilkinson also were thanked for their assistance at the flower show. Correspondence read included a resolution from the Local Council of Women (Victoria) which was endorsed by the local institute "to give preference to goods made in Canada or the Empire when purchasing the same."

The promise of a healthy grant from Dr. H. E. Young was received with satisfaction by the meeting. Questionnaires were given out to the various conveners. Mrs. P. N. Welch and Mrs. J. E. Macdonald were appointed delegates for the Institute Conference to be held in Victoria on Oct. 22-23. Innovations regarding social evenings were made and it was decided that two members should undertake them, each month during the winter season. A card party arranged by the institute directors will be held on Wednesday, October 2, and will be in aid of the Blakeburn Fund. It was proposed and carried that there should be a Halloween party for children held on October 31.

Mrs. Malcolm presented the prizes to the successful competitors at the recent show. All school children present receiving an apple and bun. Miss Drury, of Victoria, then gave a skillful demonstration of transparent sealing wax flowers, her pretty nosegay being won by Mrs. T. H. Smallwood. The well executed paper poinsettia, made was purchased by the president. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Miss Drury for her interesting talk. Roses and chrysanthemums adorned the long tea table, the hostesses being Mrs. A. B. Bown and Mrs. E. H. Phipps.

Unemployed Elect Committee to Wait On B.C. Government

To present suggestions to the Provincial Government on unemployment and to make further inquiries as to the possibility of roadwork in Esquimalt, the Vancouver Island Unemployed Association yesterday evening drew up a special committee during its meeting in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. Herbert Lyons, Sidney Pelton, F. Lavery, Samuel Pearl, C. E. Strout and Miss C. M. Arnup, women's organizer for Saanich, were named to the executive body.

Walter Inward and Miss Arnup addressed the meeting over which R. Craddock presided.

Provision was made for the addition of delegates from outside municipalities to the present committee. Before adjourning, the meeting passed a vote of thanks to the Chamber of Commerce for the use of its auditorium.

ADVICE TO FARMERS

Winnipeg, Sept. 25.—Farmers on the prairies would be well advised to undertake grain growing on smaller tracts of land, far more intensively, and pay more attention to mixed farming, John Marchbank, former principal of the Agricultural and Horticultural College at Manchester, Northern Ireland, said in an interview here yesterday evening. With a party of eleven other British agriculturists and stock breeders, Mr. Marchbank has just completed a tour of the western provinces.

AN ALL-STAR team picked from the teams of the National and American Leagues by a jury of baseball writers is shown above. It is a club with a batting average of .300, with three pitchers, who altogether have over seventy games this season. All the pitchers selected by the ten baseball writers are from the American League. A catcher is taken from each loop.

The infield of National League three to one, and the outfield is American League two to one. Aside from the pitching, the division of places gives the National League a slight edge. Taking the team, pitchers and all, the American League predominates, seven to five. Leave out the pitchers and the National League gets five places to the American League's four.

The twelve players named above are supposed to be the best players in the world at their positions. But the voting on several of the places showed opinions widely different. Simmons, Wilson, Cochrane and Ferrell were the only four chosen unanimously for their jobs. Babe Ruth got eight votes. Cuyler and Klein getting one apiece.

The contest at second base and third base was close. Gehringer won at second with five votes, while Lou Gehrig won at third with four. Cardinals, second with four and Hughes Citz, Giants, got one. At third Lindstrom was chosen over Pie Traynor, by a vote of four to two. There was a wide difference of opinion about the shortstop, too, Jackson getting four votes, while Joe Cronin, Washington, got three. Glen Wright, Brooklyn, two and Charley Gelbert, Cardinals, one. Nine of the writers named Bill Terry, the other vote going to Lou Gehrig of the Yankees.

Each writer was asked to name two catchers and three pitchers. Here is the result of the vote on catchers: Cochrane, 10; Hartnett, 3; Shanty Hogan, 1. And this is how the writers voted on pitchers: Ferrell, 10; Grove, 9; Lyons, 8; Pat Malone, 3; George Earnshaw, Athletics, 2 and Ray Brenner, Pittsburgh, 2.

These active small men cause no end of trouble in the sports world. Henri Cochet has always held the Indian sign on lanky Bill Tilden, although not nearly so much as he has on the other side of the net. Gene Sarazen, one of golf's smallest stars, gets his chunky body behind that ball so well that he topped other pros in the Augusta Classic $25,000 prize. In the U.S. Professional Golfers Association tournament, Bryan Grant, new U.S. clay court tennis champion, is another 118 pounder, who stands only a scant five feet four above the tennis court.

In France the wealthy are turning to golf. Among the novelties to be found on a French course are grey-haired, bent-backed grandees, who act as caddies, carrying the bags around, and even teeing up the ball for the debonair sportsmen.

Recently a group of Japanese women wrestlers visited Honolulu. These robust gals have all the roughhouse professional tactics. One will spit on her hands, about a whoop of defiance, and hurl another through the air on to the mat with a slam that shakes the building. Whereupon the other delicate member of the fair sex will raise her two hundred pound arms and throw a clove hitch or a double bowline. Part of the easy life of these women is to throw 150-pound bags of rice around in the air from one female to the other. Lord pity the male in another 100 years.

Victoria Rep Players In Feature Roles; Wenman Scores Try

Victoria Forward Goes Over Japan's Line Late in Second Half for Tying Points; Campbell Forbes and Art Fell Turn in Good Performances; Japanese Use Substitute When Toba Suffers Badly Injured Shoulder; Packing of B.C. Forwards Is Highlight.

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 25.—With the pick of Vancouver and Victoria unions to choose from, President Jack Tyrwhitt of the B.C. Union at last sent a team that was able to hold its own against the Imperial Japanese fifteen at Brockton Point on Wednesday afternoon, and after one of the most evenly-contested struggles on a British Columbia rugby pitch in many seasons, the contestants finished with the count 3 to 3. British Columbia might easily have won the battle had Niblo converted the lone try, but that is just one of the breaks, for the King George five-eighths seldom misses extra points from such easy positions as that of yesterday.

SIDELIGHTS

Substitution made its way into the English rugby game between the B.C. and the Imperial Japanese in Vancouver yesterday when Toba, flashy Japanese wing three-quarter, was injured and forced from the field. Jack Tyrwhitt, president of the B.C. Rugby Union, immediately yanked Phil Barratt, provincial rep team wing, to even up the sides.

S. Kayama, the Nippons coach, objected strenuously, pointing out to the B.C. officials that such a procedure was outside all the rules of rugby. The Vancouver men said the match was an exhibition one, and would hardly be fair if the teams played on uneven terms.

After considerable argument, they finally compromised, Japan sending on a substitute, while Phil Barratt returned for the B.C. squad.

And the fans gave both boys a great hand when they brought their respective sides to full strength. The spectators wanted to see a real rugby game, not two teams playing under strength. Substitution met the requirements.

Direct word from the Vancouver sidelines, says that the Victoria boys went over big with the mainline. The names of Campbell Forbes and Godfrey Wenman were on the lips of the fans throughout the game.

They merited all the applause they received. Both featured in the play which gave British Columbia a try. Wright kicked down and followed up to put his team on level. One of the Vancouver forwards secured and passed to Campbell Forbes, who rushed ahead, drew the fullback and created an opening before passing to Wenman, who raced over to score between the posts.

Bill Porteous played brilliantly, following down on virtually every play. Wenman put up a good exhibition, playing with severe injuries to the small of his back, which considerably cut down his speed.

While the Vancouver contribution to the pack worked well, it did not follow down quickly enough on the line in the second half, but was frequently let one of the Victoria boys alone in a flock of Japanese.

Criticism that the Capitals did not let the ball out of the scrum was met with the rejoinder that the Japanese saw to that feature of the match, and didn't give the Victorians, who were all in the back rank, any chance to heel the ball free.

Murray, the U.B.C. forward, showed up well in the scrum.

Art Fell, playing on the wing, broke away on a terrific run along the line in the second half, but was forced out within an ace of scoring.

Teramura, the steady Japanese back, turned in the best performance of the series, officials added, and gave the B.C. team no chance of gaining on fumbles.

The B.C. backfield tackled well, individually they were stars, but they failed to click on their three-quarter runs and consequently failed to make much ground on the offensive.

Campbell Forbes' kicking was good every time he put his foot to the ball. Ernie Pinkham and Bobby Gault, playing inside three-quarters, turned in good performances, breaking fast and covering plays well.

It was generally thought that Jack Bryden, husky Victoria fullback, would have made the provincial rep team on his showing in the first game if injury in the second had not kept him out of further encounters. At least that's what some of the Vancouver officials told Fred Cabeldu.

When the local boys wandered around Vancouver at the close of the match, Campbell Forbes was seen wearing Fujii's blazer. The Victorians certainly were popular with the men from the land of the rising sun.

On Saturday the Japanese manager, who was seen "shooting" action pictures of the game, will show his newscams in Vancouver.

Newark, N.J., Sept. 25.—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, won a ten-round decision over Paul Swiderki at Dreamland Park yesterday evening. Walker weighed 161½ pounds, Swiderki 168. Walker's title was not at stake.

Then, again, the final result might just as easily have been the other way, for in the last three minutes, with the Japanese putting every ounce of reserve strength into the game, kept the B.C. men penned up in their own twenty-five-yard line. On a breakaway from a scrum, Chiba, who had a clear break for the line, fumbled, and the defenders, quick to take advantage of the slip, held off the attack until the final whistle, which was a decidedly welcome sound to every man on the field.

There were few casualties, the only serious mishap being an injured shoulder which Toba suffered in the first four minutes of play. Toba was going around the left wing when he was dropped by Eric Cameron. Dr. Boyle attended the player and had him removed to St. Paul's. The admitting officer there reported that an x-ray revealed the fact that no bones were broken, though the shoulder was badly bruised. The player then left the hospital.

USE SUBSTITUTE
With the injury to Toba the "rep" team dropped Phil Barratt until about twenty minutes from the start an agreement was reached whereby a fresh Japanese player was allowed to substitute for Toba coming back on the field.

Toba made the fourth back division player of the Japanese to be laid up by injury, the others being Tanaka, Iwamae, and Fujii. The admitting officer there reported that an x-ray revealed the fact that no bones were broken, though the shoulder was badly bruised. The player then left the hospital.

Art Fell of Victoria and Bobby Gault of U.B.C. were the pick of the two forwards, both being deadly in tackling, while the latter squirmed his way through the scrum several times for appreciable gains.

Wright at fullback was much better than in the earlier games. It was his kick and recover in the second half that started the rush for B.C.'s only try, to tie the count and save his team from defeat.

Campbell Forbes of Victoria proved most leader of the pack. He was in the very thick of the action all the way, starting many forward movements. He was given admirable support by Bud Murray of U.B.C. Leading the pack, Forbes, one of the stars of the game, and by the other two Victoria men of the rear rank, Warnock and Godfrey Wenman, who were in the thick of the game.

The teams follow:
Japan—Teramura; Toba, Suzuki, Fujii, Ka and Kitano; Matabara and Hagawa; Shimizu, Miyachi, Wada, Chiba, Mishima, Ohta, Yagai and Washita.
British Columbia—Wright; Fell, Gault, Pinkham and P. Barratt; Niblo and Murray; Normington, Ledingham, Porteous, Warnock and Wenman.

Referee, Harry Lord; touch judges, E. Yeo and Ostrine.

JACK NEEDS WEN TO STAY IN PICTURE

Sharkey Faces Supreme Test in Bout To-night Against Victorio Campolo

New York, Sept. 25.—If the pre-fight odds receipts are any criterion, then it doesn't make much of a difference to very many people if Jack Sharkey lowers his eyes to the ring between 8:30 and 9 p.m. E.S.T. Predictions were the receipts would not go much above the $100,000 mark and if such be the case, then Madison Square Garden faces a substantial loss. Sharkey, making his first appearance since losing to Lax Schmeling on a foul in June, will enter the ring 2 to 1 favorite over his bitter but cruder South American opponent. The Boston sailor will have not only the advantage of the betting odds, if that be an advantage, but his late of the annual battle of the palms at the Garden will be $100,000. In contrast Campolo will receive only training expenses about $7,500.

BANK ON CAMPOLLO
The Garden, which manages Campolo, has high hopes the Argentine heavyweight will come through to-night, furnish the biggest upset of the fight season and provide an outstanding opponent for Young Stribling in the annual battle of the palms at the Garden will be $100,000. In contrast Campolo will receive only training expenses about $7,500.

All these people, with a slight exception in New Zealand, which is followed in British Columbia, play the game of English rugby in accordance with the rules drawn up by the Rugby Union. It is, I believe, the only team game of such a wide international character, and maintain that far from isolating ourselves from this international competition, Canada

SUBSTITUTES IN RUGBY
To the Sports Editor:—With your permission I would like to combat the arguments in favor of allowing substitutes in English rugby which appeared in "The Sports Mirror" on Tuesday issue of the Times.

In what is still the headquarters of rugby, the British Isles, the game is governed by a committee of very wise and experienced men. Through fully realizing the financial support which spectators afford, these men, in their wisdom, believe the glory of the game and its future progress to be more in the number of young men who can be encouraged to play it than in the numbers who turn up on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons to watch. Their rules are therefore drawn up in such a way as to make the game attractive to the player, whereas the writer of the article in question would have four or five substitutes, probably getting less than half a game in order to speed the game up and make it more spectacular for the onlooker.

The Rugby Union committee have at least two other reasons for limiting the team to fifteen players only. The first of these is that a young man in proper training should be able to last out thirty-five minutes each way with a five-minute break at half-time. It is not able to do that it will do him good to take a bit of exercise in his spare time and get into condition so that he can. The other reason I wish to bring forward is traveling expenses.

In the British Isles of each club, a strict forming a league and playing a series of matches to decide the championship of their district and who shall hold the trophy for the following twelve months. The various clubs prepare their fixture list to include matches with other clubs up and down the country, perhaps three or four hundred miles distant, and to maintain these clubs at their home ground at some other time. The added expense of taking along four or five substitutes on such excursions would be a serious strain on the finances of any club.

So far I have been concentrating on conditions as they exist in the old Country, where a large number of clubs turn out four or more teams twice a week, and several hundreds indulge in the game. I am now turning to the international game. In Canada, until quite recently, it has been confined to British Columbia and the Maritime Provinces; it has now established a firm foothold in every province of the Dominion. Australia, New Zealand and South Africa have long been able to compete successfully with the Mother Country. France has already gained considerable success in the yearly international series, and Germany has been the game from the army of occupation. Japan, as shown in the United States, has been playing for many years, but it has now received recognition by the U.S. Marine Corps. These men found, during the game of such a wide international character, and maintain that far from isolating ourselves from this international competition, Canada should adhere closely to the rules of the game as played in other countries and bring up her young menhood with sufficient staidness to last a full game without relief.

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 25.—Presenting a line that functioned like a high-powered steam roller, and a backfield behind it that knew how to make the most of almost every opportunity presented, Hamilton's famous Tigers, holders of the Canadian rugby championship, swept through to the third straight win of their western tour here yesterday afternoon by defeating Coach Deacon White's Edmonton Allstars by a score of 22 to 1.

While the winning margin was a convincing one, the Edmontonians at least have the satisfaction of having made the best showing of any western aggregation to date, as the Tigers clawed their way to victories at Winnipeg and Saskatoon by scores of 20 to 2 and 39 to 0.

Further than that, but for a place of wretched luck, bad break, or poor judgment if you like, the score for the winners would have been six points less. Early in the first quarter Allan Hall, snap back for Edmonton, heaved the ball miles over the intended receiver's head when on his own ten-yard line and Glen Small fell on it for a touch that Wright converted. It was a break that didn't help the team's morale.

The Tigers gave a finished display. Timmis was a star among a starry cast of line plungers, while their ends, Cook and Simpson, tackled with great skill. Gibb was the shining light in a great backfield, with Wright not far behind. When they resorted to straight football Timmis, Inskett and Gibb were immense, while Wright, Small, Gibb and Langway ran extension plays that would be hard to beat. Leadley only got into the game for a few minutes in the final period. Edwyn Jones, diminutive "back leader," was the shining light for the losers, his catching of punts being without a flaw. Hall, Cook and Runge also starred defensively, and the line as a whole played well.

A crowd of close to 3,000 saw the match, which was played under ideal rugby conditions.

FIRST QUARTER
Hall kicked off to Wright, who returned it to Jones. Ekimies kicked after two bucks and Tigers only made five yards on two downs. Wright kicking to Jones. Ekimies made a gain on a kick when Wright fumbled. On an exchange of kicks Gibb punted to the dead line. A poor snap by Hall over Campbell's head let the ball go over the Edmonton line and Small fell on it for a touch, Wright converting.

Wright was warned for interference and the pass went as completed for thirty yards gain. Jones tried a drop kick but was low, and Wright ran it out and kicked on the first down.

Von Elm Defeated By McCarthy In Spectacular Match

Last Survivor of "Seeded" Favorites, Save Bobby Jones, Beaten in Second Round of U.S. Amateur Golf After Ten Extra Holes, Setting New Endurance Record; Elm Put Up Great Fight to Break Jinx of "Sudden Death" Matches.

By ALAN J. GOULD, Associated Press Sports Writer

Merion Cricket Club, Ardmore, Penn., Sept. 25.—The shades of night again were falling rapidly over the bunkered battleground yesterday evening when George von Elm of Los Angeles, last survivor of the entire set of "seeded" favorites save only Bobby Jones, lost to Maurice J. McCarthy Jr. of New York in a spectacular battle that went exactly ten extra holes to the twenty-eighth, and shattered all endurance records for the American amateur golf championship.

Tied after the first nine holes of their second round match, all square again at the eighteenth, Von Elm and McCarthy, weary but still game, went to the tenth extra hole, still deadlocked.

It was the forty-eighth hole of the day for the bronzed, stocky McCarthy, who had been forced to play one extra play-off hole yesterday morning to qualify, then on to the nineteenth in the first round to eliminate Watta Gunn of Pittsburgh.

Von Elm had swept through the first round easily, whipping Chuck Hunter by 9 and 8, and stood out as one of the few remaining favorites until he caught the tartar who fought him to a standstill and finally to defeat.

This was to be Von Elm's last amateur tournament, and he was fighting with grim desperation to avoid the jinx that has beset him in the opening day's "sudden death" matches ever since he whipped Bobby Jones in the finals, four years ago.

GREAT SUSPENSE
So there was every element of dramatic suspense as these two, blonde George and dark, pugilistic looking Maurice, stepped up to the twenty-eighth tee and whaled out long drives aimed to give them easy approaches to this dog-leg 555-yard.

McCarthy had the longer drive, and after Von Elm had pitched well on the New York youth played a pitch and ran down to the cup. The ball stopped barely eight inches from the hole, and Von Elm was left with a twelve-footer to sink if he hoped to continue the fight. He missed by a narrow margin and conceded the putt, the hole and the match to McCarthy.

This record-breaking match doubled the previous mark of five extra holes for any prolonged encounter in tournament history, dating back thirty-four years. Back in 1913 Paul Hunter of Chicago beat A. C. Ullmer of Florida at the twenty-third hole in a first round match at the Garden City Golf Club, and in 1920 at the Engineers' Club, Chicago, Evans won five extra holes to beat Reggie Lewis at the forty-first.

McCarthy has always been a "bear" for endurance battles in this championship. He got into the semifinals at the twenty-second hole in 1926, and the following year he came close to beating Bobby Jones at Minneapolis in a first round match that went to the nineteenth hole before the Georgian won.

Reversing the situation of a year ago at Pebble Beach, where the great Jones was the principal victim of an upset, Bobby came through with flying colors yesterday to win both his eighteen-hole contests and end the third round, while all seven of the remaining seeded contestants were handed knockout wallops.

brilliant in the first round, but extremely erratic in the afternoon, conquered the two Canadian contenders, C. Ross Somerville and Fred G. Hobbs, by the same margin, 5 and 4.

Surviving the battle of "Black Wednesday," with Jones was Jess Swester, former of York, a former champion, forced to nineteen holes to whip a rank outsider, Jack Ahearn of Hamburg, New York, in the second round and a group of six younger stars making up the quarter final bracket of eight contestants.

Behind the blazing paths of such stars as George Volgt of New York, Johnny Goodman of Omaha, the 1929 conqueror of Jones, and a youngling of Portland, Ore., 1929 runner up, T. Philip Perkins of New York, the former British champion; Francis Guimet of Boston, veteran former amateur, and open title holder, and George T. Dunlap Jr., New York, the national intercollegiate king.

These six with Von Elm shared seven of the eight seeded brackets when match play began yesterday. Swester was on the original list for seeding but when he was forced into a play-off to make the qualifying grade, this distinction was withdrawn.

The favorites began taking it on the chin in the very first round as the battle broke loose all over the premises. The chance that Goodman would have a return bout with Jones in the third round was blasted when the Nebraska bowed to Johnny McHugh, of San Francisco, winner by one up in a ding-dong battle, in the very first round. McHugh was eliminated in an all-California battle by Coleman, 3 and 2.

In one of the five extra-hole matches of the day Dr. Willing lost a sensational match to Wm. Lawson, Jr., of San Francisco, at the twentieth hole. Little, in turn, was knocked out of the tournament in the second round by Homans who won by the decisive count of 4 and 2.

Perkins, a finalist in 1926, when he lost to Jones, was a first round victim of the rampant Johnny Lehman in the match decided 3 and 1. Youth also prevailed when eighteen-year-old George Kooles, of Detroit, the Michigan state champion, put out Guimet, titleholder, sixteen years ago, 3 and 2, 19.

Defeat of Champion Highlight In Women's Golf

Mrs. Philbrick Is Victim of Colwood Star In Good Match

Holder of City Championship for Two Years Beaten at Eighteenth Hole by Mrs. G. A. Bennett, Champion Falter After Gaining Early Lead; Mrs. E. Jackson, Medalist, Given Great Battle by Mrs. J. Hutchinson, Winning at Twentieth Hole; Mrs. J. Macfarlane and Miss M. Todd in Easy Victories.

Defeat of the defending champion, Mrs. B. R. Philbrick, by Mrs. G. A. Bennett, Colwood, and the twentieth hole victory of Mrs. E. Jackson, Uplands, the medalist, over Mrs. J. Hutchinson, Victoria, were the highlights in yesterday's quarter-finals of the women's city golf championship at the Uplands Club. Mrs. Bennett's one-up victory over Mrs. Philbrick was the feature of the afternoon's play inasmuch as the Oak Bay star was an outstanding favorite to win her third championship. Mrs. Bennett came from behind to win and her victory was a popular one.

ANDY DIVODI SHOWS CLASS

Billy Townsend's Opponent Next Monday Impressive in First Workout

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 25.—Andy Divodi, New York welterweight contender, who battles Billy Townsend ten rounds here on Monday next, put in his first day of training here yesterday afternoon before one of the largest crowd of fans that have ever turned out to any of the training camps here, and gave plenty of evidence just why he is rated sixth among the ten leading battlers of this class.

Twenty-four years of age, Divodi has run up a record of thirty-three knock-outs in seventy-eight bouts. Jackie Phillips, the present Canadian welterweight champion, being amongst his victims. The coming match will have a direct bearing on the welterweight situation as Townsend is now also rated as a contender, and the bout is attracting plenty of interest.

Townsend is rapidly nearing the peak of condition for the match, and plans his hardest work for the next two days.

Young Pro Chalks Up Victories Over Havers and Compston

Watford, Eng., Sept. 25.—A young Liverpool professional, W. Large, hitherto unknown in the ancient pastime, astounded the British golfing world yesterday by defeating successfully Arthur Havers and Archie Compston, two of the country's outstanding players, in the second and third rounds of the 1,000 guineas professional championship. Large defeated Havers at the nineteenth hole, and followed that by coming from behind to eliminate Compston in a grueling tussle that went twenty-one holes. Abe Mitchell, defending champion, Charles Whitcombe and Henry Cotton, all won their third round matches.

At the start of the Philbrick-Bennett match, the defending champion continued her fine golf, to obtain a lead of two up at the fifth hole. On the seventh and eighth holes, Mrs. Philbrick fell away, driving two balls out of bounds to allow her opponent to square the match after the sixth hole had been halved. The ninth was halved with Mrs. Philbrick taking the tenth with a four to regain the lead again. The eleventh was halved, with Mrs. Bennett squaring the match at the twelfth. Mrs. Philbrick went into the lead again by winning the thirteenth. At the dog leg fourteenth, Mrs. Philbrick put her second shot into the woods, to lose the hole, and the match was all even again. The fifteenth was halved in four. Mrs. Bennett went into the lead for the first time at the sixteenth, when Mrs. Philbrick found a bunker with her second shot. Recovering the champion squared the match at the seventeenth.

CHAMPION IN TROUBLE
Driving off first at the eighteenth, Mrs. Philbrick put her shot into the woods to the left of the fairway, while Mrs. Bennett was straight down with nice distance. Mrs. Philbrick managed to play out onto the fairway, while Mrs. Bennett's second shot was off to the right. However, the Oak Bay star faltered on her approach, getting in behind a tree to the left, while Mrs. Bennett reached the green six feet from the cup. Mrs. Philbrick placed a nice iron shot twelve feet from the pin, but missed her putt and conceded the hole and the match.

Coming from behind after being three down at the twelfth, Mrs. Jackson clinched up well-merited victory over Mrs. Hutchinson at the twentieth hole. The latter after gaining an early lead, faltered on the final nine, to allow the medalist to square the match at the eighteenth. The nineteenth was halved, but on the twentieth the end was seen. Both players reached the green in three, with Mrs. Hutchinson being away. Her putt went six feet past the cup, while Mrs. Jackson placed her ball two feet from the cup, and leaving Mrs. Hutchinson a half stroke. The Oak Bay star made a great effort to hole out, but her putt just rimmed the cup.

WIN EASILY
Mrs. James Macfarlane and Miss Marjorie Todd, the other two quarter finalists, scored one-sided victories. The former triumphed over Mrs. Alex. Watson, 4 and 2, while Miss Todd eliminated Mrs. A. M. Boyd, 6 and 4.

Yesterday's results in the championship and first flights follow:
Championship Flight—Third Round
Mrs. E. Jackson defeated Mrs. J. Philbrick, 3 and 1.
Mrs. G. A. Bennett defeated Mrs. B. R. Philbrick, one up.
Mrs. James Macfarlane defeated Mrs. E. Watson, 4 and 2.
Miss Marjorie Todd defeated Mrs. A. M. Boyd, 6 and 4.

First Flight—Second Round
Mrs. C. H. Eve defeated Mrs. Walter Parry, 6 and 5.
Miss F. C. defeated Miss F. Fitzgibbon, 3 and 1.
Mrs. C. E. Morris defeated Mrs. W. H. Lawson, one up.
Mrs. R. A. Semple defeated Mrs. J. H. Richardson, 2 and 1.

J.B.A.A. Tennis Champs Get Prizes

Prizes were written on the activities of the J.B.A.A. Tennis Club for this season, when the winners of the various club championships received their prizes at a dance held at the George Club on Wednesday evening.

Mildred Phillips and Ivan Temple, winners of the women's and men's singles titles, respectively, were presented with the J.B.A.A. perpetual trophies. Mrs. Thomas and Miss Phillips, women's doubles champions; Bill Erickson and Freer, men's doubles; Biddy Boyce and Cliff Margison, mixed doubles; Gordon Scott, men's consolation; and Helen Peden, women's consolation, were presented with beautiful silver shields, donated by F. W. Francis.

LOCAL SWIMMERS TO SEEK TITLES HERE NOVEMBER

Will Compete For Men's B.C. Diving and 100 Yards Backstroke Championships

Other Events Sought For Y.M.C.A. Gala; Stewart Will Defend Springboard Honors

Swimmers of Victoria and possibly Vancouver will seek at least two British Columbia championships in the Y.M.C.A. gala at the Crystal Garden in November. It was announced by Archie McKinnon, physical director of the association, this morning. The contests will be for the provincial men's fancy diving and 100 yards backstroke laurels. Efforts are being made to secure the women's 100 yards freestyle and fifty yards freestyle for the gala, but whether or not they will be on the programme rests with V. J. Dunn, secretary of the B.C. section of the C.A.S.A.

Following the association's swimming club meeting yesterday evening a letter was sent off to Mr. Dunn asking for a definite date for the annual gala. Those in charge at the local "Y" are striving to secure some day close to November 22 for the meet.

KEEN DIVING COMPETITION EXPECTED
The gala this year is expected to bring out some keen competition in the diving lists. Allan Stewart, present holder of the title, will be out to defend his honors against Jack Bryden and Art Stout with the possibility of Ernie Peden also diving for local club. It is hoped that Vancouver will be represented by Henry King, Laurie Liddis and Karl Reppel, but whether or not these boys will be over for the competition has not been definitely settled.

In the men's sprint, Denny Walker, fast moving local junior, will make an attempt to lift the 100 yards backstroke honors from the burly shoulders of George Burrows, Vancouver ace. The same two are expected to compete in the fifty yards freestyle along with Mary McKee, if that event is on the programme.

Should Vancouver send over a women's contingent, Alison Clappitt, fast young breaststroke ace for the Mainlanders, will possibly make the trip. Swimming during the summer in an exhibition race, the Vancouver girl put up an exceptionally good showing against Agnes Garaghty, the New York star. Her name in the programme should lend materially to the drawing attractions of the meet.

In addition to the serious races, several novelty events will be included in the programme and should lend a touch of humor to the contests. Competitions for juniors and handicapped races are also expected to be staged.

Sharkey Scales Even 200 Lbs. For To-night's Scrap

New York, Sept. 25.—Jack Sharkey scaled an even 200 pounds when he and Victoriano Campolo of Argentina weighed in this afternoon for tonight's heavyweight bout at the Yankee Stadium. Campolo, weighing 225 lb., had less of an advantage than had been expected, as Sharkey registered considerably more than he had for any previous fight.

MAYOR BEATEN IN GOLF MATCH

Loses Opening Encounter on New Crystal Garden Course to H. F. Matthews

Besides being general manager of C.P.R. western hotels, H. F. Matthews is a good Tom Thump golfer. Yesterday afternoon at the Crystal Garden he defeated Mayor Ansonb one up in the opening match on the new course.

On the first nine holes the Mayor ably demonstrated his superiority, and as the turn was leading one up. However, on the homeward journey the Mayor slipped, allowing his opponent to square the match on the twelfth. Matthews won the next two holes, while the fifteenth and sixteenth were halved. The Mayor won the seventeenth, but Matthews gained a half on the eighteenth to score a victory.

Alsterman James Adam, Herbert J. Wilson, manager of the Empress Hotel, and B. C. Nicholas, managing editor of The Times, also tried their skill with the putter.

SOUTHERN YOUTHS IN LIMELIGHT

Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill Provide Fireworks in Los Angeles Tennis

Former Triumphs Over Wilmer Allison Seeded Number One; Gledhill Beats Wood

Los Angeles, Sept. 25.—A couple of southern California youths who were not reckoned with in the seedings, today will defend the honors of the west against the south and east in the semi-finals of the fourth annual Pacific southwest men's singles championships.

These two nineteen-year-olds won their way to their present bracketings by dint of hard play, which saw each eliminate two of the seeded select in the last two days.

Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, the more prominent of the two because he won the Metropolitan grass court singles championship this summer, meets Cliff Sutter, national intercollegiate champion from Tulane University. Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, was unable to break through in important play during the last season, making his rise to the match with Gregory Mangin, Newark, N.J., and national clay court doubles champion, even more startling.

Besides a battle west-south and west-east, the round will be an intercollegiate affair, for Vines is a University of Southern California freshman, Gledhill a Stanford University sophomore, and Mangin a Georgetown University star.

As a matter of fact, the presence of the entire cast in the third round is a result of nothing short of sensational play, with Vines and Gledhill playing the leading roles.

ALLISON BEATEN

Vines yesterday upset Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, Davis Cup player, and seeded number one, in the most trying match of the men's singles, winning only after five sets, 6-7, 6-3, 12-10, 6-3, 6-4. The day before he had eliminated Lytleton Rodgers, Irish champion, seeded number eight. Gledhill stopped Sidney Wood of Pasadena and New York, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, 14-12, after putting Johnny Van Ryn, Davis Cup team member from East Orange, N.J., out of the running the day previous. Woods was ranked number three and Van Ryn number five. To round out a perfect day for the younger set, Sutter took Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas, into camp in easier style than had been expected, when he eliminated the victor over Jean Borotra, French star, in play this year. Sutter's first set was the most difficult. He took it 7-5, and then went right through Bell 6-3, 6-4. Finals will be played Saturday.

NATIONAL RACE WILL BE SETTLED

St. Louis and Chicago Open Final Series Against Pirates and Reds

Championship Can Be Decided To-day; Brooklyn Drops Down to Fourth Place

After long weeks of heated battling, the National League pennant race finally has arrived at the point where it may be settled in one day's play. Idle yesterday as they returned home for the finish, the two contenders again hoist the battle flags to-day, St. Louis starting its final four games against Pittsburgh and Chicago clashing with the Cincinnati Reds.

If the league-leading Cardinals can win to-day's game and the Reds can again assert the supremacy over the Cubs they have held all season, the race will be over. This result, however, is by no means certain, for the Pirates already have knocked one team, the New York Giants, out of the pennant race, while the Cubs, easy victims in Cincinnati, have done somewhat better against the Reds in Chicago.

TRAYNOR HITS HOMER
The rivals of the two leaders clashed yesterday, but rain interrupted the game several times and finally halted it in the sixth inning, bringing Pittsburgh a 5-1 victory. Pie Traynor's home run in the first inning sent the Pirates off to a lead that never was threatened.

Brooklyn's floundering Robins dropped into fourth place as they lost the other National League game to the last-place Phillies. With successive first inning homers by Chuck Klein and Hurst as the starting points, the Phils continued to hit hard and won 6-5.

Boston Red Sox defeated the second-place Washington Senators 6-3 in the only American League game.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Pittsburgh, Sept. 25.—Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati 5 to 1 in an abbreviated game here yesterday afternoon. It rained throughout the contest, which was held up forty minutes in the third inning and called in the sixth after Pittsburgh had Cincinnati two down.

Monthly Event At Oak Bay Club On September 28

The first of the six monthly competitions at the Victoria Golf Club will be held on September 28, and not on September 29, as stated in Wednesday night's issue of The Times.

Another off-day in the major league schedule brought only two members of the Big Six into action. Babe Herman and Chuck Klein were sent against each other and Herman came out a trifle ahead in the struggle, although Klein's team won.

The Brooklyn Babe hit twice in five times up to hold his average at .393, while Klein had only one hit, his fortieth home run, in five attempts. His mark dropped one point to .391.

Clinging frocks demand this inconspicuous sanitary protection

Designed for inconspicuous protection—and so light, so cool, so comfortable in warmest weather

WEAR your sheerest clothes day after day the whole year through, without the slightest fear of embarrassment... ever. Kotex makes it possible.

Kotex is the shaped sanitary pad that is non-detectable. The corners are rounded and tapered. There is no awkward bulk.

Most hospitals use Kotex filler. Can you imagine any more eloquent tribute to Kotex than this? Surgeons in Canada's leading hospitals select Kotex filler (Cellucotton)—not cotton—absorbent wadding for their patients! Not only for sanitary pads, but also for surgical dressings. This is the same material of which Kotex is made.

Kotex gives complete protection. It actually absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture. So bulk and weight are unnecessary. In their place, you have lightness... coolness... perfect comfort... even in warmest weather.

Kotex deodorizes, too—so much more important on warm days. And

SPEAKER TELLS OF NEW CULT

Business Women Hear Mrs. Ransom-Kehler on Bahai Movement

The Bahai movement, a religious cult founded by a descendant of the ancient royal dynasty of Persia last century, was described to a gathering under the auspices of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club yesterday evening by Mrs. Ransom-Kehler, who represented the movement at the Institute of Pacific Relations, held in Tokyo last year, and who has been a visitor at the coast.

The speaker is one of the international teachers of the movement, which is based upon the principle of world brotherhood, and was founded by Baha'u'llah, a name meaning "Glory of God," a Persian born in 1817, and who passed away in the prison city of Acre at the foot of Mount Carmel in 1892. His son, Abd'ul Baha, was knighted by King George during the world war for his outstanding philanthropic and humanitarian services. Baha'u'llah spent the last fourteen years of his life in prison for daring to promulgate the "obnoxious heresy" that this handful of dust has one home, and that man must learn to live upon it as precious," said Mrs. Ransom-Kehler.

After enlarging upon the aims and objects of the movement, the speaker described the temple erected to this cult in Chicago, called the Mashrahi U' Adkar—meaning "the sunrise of God's praise." This temple has nine paths to it and nine entrances, for the seven religions of the world and two extra—one even for a Atheist! If he followed the work of social reform and love. One of the principles of this religion was that of equal rights for women, and that in the period between 1844 and 1888, she said, Miss Kate McLaren presided at the gathering.

House Wedding Yesterday Joins Colwood Couple

With masses of autumn flowers to lend beauty to the setting, the marriage of Eva May Lamb Hillborn, only daughter of Mrs. Hillborn and the late J. L. Hillborn, to Harry C. Benson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Benson, of Mount View Road, Colwood, was solemnized at noon yesterday at the home of the bride's mother, Sooke Road, Colwood. Rev. J. B. Rowell of Central Baptist Church, Victoria, performed the ceremony, the young couple standing beneath a white wedding bell, with flowers in the autumn tints as a pretty background.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. E. C. Wilderspin, and made a winsome picture in her simple gown of white flat crepe in the new ankle-length. Her veil was embroidered in pearls and she carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Miss Evelyn Bland, of Victoria, was the bridesmaid, wearing a dainty gown of green chiffon and carrying a bouquet of yellow flowers. Mrs. Wilderspin played the wedding music, and during the informal reception, Mrs. R. D. McCaw, of Victoria, sang, "I Love You Truly."

A buffet luncheon was served at the table prettily arranged with flowers and centred with the handsome wedding cake. Later Mr. and Mrs. Benson left on the afternoon boat for Seattle, where the honeymoon will be spent, the bride traveling in an ensemble suit in shades of brown, with fur-trimmed top-coat of brown, broadcloth, and hat to match.

Lodge Met.—Daughters of St. George, Princess Patricia Lodge, No. 228, have made arrangements for a social to be given in their new hall, the New Thought Temple. A silver tea will be held at the home of Sister Burkmar, Friday, September 26, at 8 o'clock.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE NEVER ELDERED

CONSTIPATION A SYMPTOM OF BAD HABIT OR ONE-SIDED DIET

If the mother were not impelled to any absurdity to prevent baby's missing a regular movement, constipation might not be one of the universal ailments of infancy and childhood. The use of laxatives of all kinds is almost a national characteristic. Every medicine chest is provided with a half-dozen kinds, and their frequent use supposedly prevents and cures all ill. We want to persuade the mother that constipation would have some chance of being cured if she corrected its cause instead of temporarily banishing the symptom. The giving of laxatives is usually followed by an even more stubborn constipation, so there is never any end in sight—just constipation, laxative, constipation, laxative in a never-ending circle.

WHAT IS WRONG?
What is wrong when the child is constipated? In the nursing baby, clearing the intestine of the meconium present at birth should rightly be followed by perhaps a day or more of inactivity. The baby eats very seldom these first few days, and there cannot be any natural bowel activity until there is a stimulating amount of residue to be excreted. If the constipation is continuous, look to baby's gain in weight. That usually tells the story of insufficient nourishment.

With the older child, constipation is usually a bad habit, or may be caused by one-sided diets too overburdened in one particular element; or too sweet formulas; or too rich formulas; or formulas with too much milk and no sugar at all; or diets lacking bulky, indigestible foods such as vegetables and fruits; or malnutrition because of insufficient food; or because the food, for some cause, is vomited.

Mrs. X. wants to know what to do for a seventeen-month-old child who is perfectly well, but always constipated. The diet is good—a quart of sterilized milk, two servings of whole wheat cereal, fruit, a vegetable and cod liver oil. She wants to know if malted powder added to the milk will help.

CORRECTIVE MEASURES
The malted powder might prove laxative and is worth trying. Also scraped raw apple, orange juice or prune pulp is most effective on an empty stomach. Feed it about twenty minutes before breakfast. Give several glasses of water daily. Twenty minutes after breakfast take the child to the toilet. A five-minute passage of the bowels is helpful and also use of a low chamber, which is most encouraging to natural action. If there is none in about five minutes, use a well-oiled suppository of soap or glycerine, and thus establish prompt action daily. Keep up this programme for at least three weeks.

Our leaflet on "Methods of Helping Constipation," as well as the diet for this age, will be helpful. Enclose with your request a self-addressed, stamped envelope, please. Your present remedy could be improved by another vegetable, and, by eggs, chicken, meat or fish served at the noon meal.

"Such rich, active suds make washing easier" says Mrs. Ida Brink

"The way dirt soaks out in Rinso suds is a mystery to me. I guess it's because of the suds. They're so rich and active they break down the hard water and make it soft as rain. That makes washing much easier, of course. Clothes last longer the Rinso way. I'm using this hard-water soap for dishes and all cleaning now, it's so economical."

MRS. IDA BRINK.

No bar soaps, chips, softeners
Even in hardest water, Rinso is all you need. Cup for cup, it gives twice as much suds as light-weight, puffed-up soaps—it's so compact. Creamy, lasting suds that wash clothes whiter.

AT THE THEATRES

"MANSLAUGHTER," AT THE DOMINION, HAS INTERESTING PLOT

Speed is the sensation that stands out most vividly in "Manslaughter," now at the Dominion Theatre. Claudette Colbert, its capricious heroine, runs wild in an orgy of fast driving, fast living, careless, carefree, utterly selfish and thoughtless. She is seen flying over the highways in a motor; flashing over the waves in a flying aquaplane and dancing with reckless abandon. She is then pulled up short by a tragedy caused by her own daring.

EXCELLENT CAST
IN "SWING HIGH"
AT THE CAPITOL

"Swing High," a dramatic Pathe dialogue and singing production which boasts an amazing cast of popular stage and screen favorites, is on view at the Capitol Theatre to-day, Friday and Saturday.

Playing the principal role in this picturesque circus romance is Helen Twelvetrees, demure and wistful-eyed youngster, whom a critic once dubbed "a Lillian Gish with stage experience." As the best "tail" but brassy heavy of the picture will be seen Dorothy Burgess. Miss Burgess created a sensation when "In Old Arizona" presented her in her first role of this type. She has since added to her laurels with similar characterizations both on stage and screen.

Completing the triumvirate is little Sally Starr, whom many regard as Clara Bow's leading rival.

THRILLING SCENES
DURING FILMING OF GREAT "ATLANTIC"

For the first time in film history, a P. & O. liner was placed at the disposal of British International Pictures at Tilbury Docks, during the production of their "talkie," "Atlantic," directed by E. A. Dupont, and now showing at the Coliseum Theatre.

Crowds of panic-stricken women were herded into the life-boats, which were duly lowered from the davits, while the men, held back by the crew, peered down from the deck of the sinking ship at the boats as they were swamped by the out-rush of water. The boat-crowds are beautifully done, the details being as close as Dupont teaches his public to expect from him. One old woman clung desperately to her kitten as the only thing in the world that mattered in those last moments, and the atmosphere of desperation and hardship is wonderfully conveyed. Several barges were moored around the liner, for the accommodation of a series of cameras, and Charles Rosher obtained a most fascinating shot from a motor-launch, in which he took from below a boat that was being lowered right on to the camera, just gliding out of the way as the boat struck the water.

Investigator Declares No Reason For Complaint of Harsh Treatment

Adam Bell, Provincial Investigator, Unable to Find Any Way to Economize

There is no indication of harsh treatment of men employed in the broom factory for the blind in Vancouver but they appear to be giving a good day's work and doing just as much as a blind man could be expected to do, says Adam Bell in a report to Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary.

Mr. Bell was named commissioner to inquire into the activities of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in British Columbia following a complaint of unfair treatment by broom factory workers and of excessive overhead expenses.

On the subject of overhead expenses, Mr. Bell says he went carefully into the details of administration which appear to be high but he is unable to recommend any direction in which economies could be effected without a consequential curtailment of the service which is at present being given to the blind.

He believes the resources at the disposal of the institute are being expended on a fair and equitable basis and considering the number of equally deserving cases which are benefiting from these ministrations, the broom factory employees are receiving a very substantial share.

Census Will Be Taken of Fruit
In the Okanagan

An exhaustive census to ascertain the condition of an agricultural industry will be launched by the Provincial Government in the Okanagan fruit business immediately.

Under this scheme the government will ascertain the value of every acre of irrigated land in the Okanagan valley, where it has loaned money to irrigationists.

The farmers will be asked by questionnaire to inform the government in detail of their crop yield of every kind in every year, since 1926, the number and kinds of their fruit trees and their annual income.

A Musical Extravaganza of Circus Life

Under the Big Top! The heart-break and the fun—the pain and the laughs—the homely little tragedies and the calm routine of death-defying work, day after day, night after night! Surrounded by animals, clowns, trainers, acrobats, trapeze-artists . . . You'll thrill to this epic musical story of an old-time circus as you've never thrilled to a picture before.

Reparations

PURSUANT to a notice that appeared in the Press, dated the 18th day of November, 1918, asking those of the civil population of Canada, who may have been subjected to loss and pecuniary damage arising from the destruction of life and property during the late war through the illegal warfare of the enemy, to file claims for compensation with the Department.

Public notice is hereby given that by an Order of His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, dated the 8th day of September, 1929, the undersigned Commissioner was appointed for the purpose of continuing and completing an enquiry and reporting upon all such claims, which have not heretofore been disposed of in the report of the previous Reparation Commissioner dated the 14th day of December, 1927.

Instructions respecting the method of filing and the proof to be furnished may be obtained from the undersigned.

The last day on which claims will be accepted for consideration is the 1st day of November, 1930.

ERROL M. McDUGALL, Reparation Commissioner, Rooms 261-8, Trafalgar Building, Ottawa, September 17, 1930.

NAVIGABLE WATERS PROTECTION ACT

R.S.C. CHAPTER 149

The Minister of Public Works of the Government of the Province of British Columbia hereby gives notice that he has, under section 7 of the said Act, deposited with the Minister of Public Works of the Dominion of Canada, a description of the site and plan of the proposed navigable waterway, the Esquimalt-Lagoon outlet, Esquimalt District, Vancouver Island, B.C.

And take notice that after the expiration of one month from the date of the first publication of this notice, the Minister of Public Works of the Dominion of Canada, or the Minister of Public Works of the Province of British Columbia, will, under section 7 of the said Act, apply to the Minister of Public Works of the Dominion of Canada for approval of the said site and plan and for leave to construct the said waterway.

Dated at Victoria, B.C., this 30th day of August, 1930.

P. PHILIP, Chief Engineer.

Pile Sufferers

End Your Misery Without Salves or Cutting

External treatments cannot permanently end Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are flabby—the bowel walls are weak—the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid "yourself of piles," internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients, with the marvelous record of success in 980 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist.

Don't waste time on external remedies or think of the pain and expense of an operation. Get a package of HEM-ROID from McFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores with their guarantee of money-back if it does not end all Pile misery.

THRILLING RACE WITH DEATH ACROSS THE CANADIAN ROCKIES

"Buckingham Cigarettes are ace-high with me. I get a thrill out of every puff. They're a wonderful cigarette for relieving tension and steadying the old pulse."

Walter Ashdown, Military Medalist, is the hero of a recent exploit that has thrilled the continent. With a pulmotor in his car Ashdown raced from Canmore, in the Canadian Rockies, across the Great Divide to Monarch Mine—a stretch of 81 miles—in one hour and twenty minutes in a desperate attempt to save two miners dying from asphyxiation. Over rough, treacherous roads, high above dizzy precipices, round death-dealing curves, up and down dangerous hills, he averaged a break-neck speed of 60 miles per hour and performed a feat unequalled in the annals of the Rocky Mountains.

YOUNG CHURCH PEOPLE RALLY

The young people of First United Church rallied 120 strong for the opening meeting of the year held this week. George Gordon and committee conducted the large group in a most enthusiastic series of games and song tests. A jolly sing-song was led by Dick Holmes. John Gough and Gordon Robison provided a comic skit which proved most amusing.

In welcoming many new-comers to the church and society, Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson commended them to the varied programmes designed to meet the needs of youth in First Church.

A large group of students, attending the Provincial Normal School, were especially welcomed and also were invited to elect one of their number to the young people's executive.

Rev. Bruce G. Gordon outlined the proposed programme for the next month pointing out its four-fold character, in which the literary, missionary citizenship and social phases would be emphasized.

Miss Ina Easton read the report of the nominating committee. Election and installation of officers will take place next Monday night when Miss Dorothy Morton and Paul Campbell will be in charge of the first musical programme of the year. The social period was in charge of Miss B. Martin and Miss Georgiana McKay.

Frederick Kroeger, Old Resident Of City, Is Dead

Frederick Kroeger, for forty-five years a resident of Victoria, and for many years engaged in the upholstery business on Fort Street, passed away last evening at the Jubilee Hospital, aged seventy-five years. The late Mr. Kroeger was born in New York City, and is survived by four sons, Hans, Fredrick, William and Henry; seven grandchildren and a great-grandson. His wife predeceased him twenty years ago. The remains are being kept at the Sands Funeral Chapel, and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

OBITUARY

The funeral of the late William Bull, who passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday, will take place on Saturday from the Sands Funeral Chapel under the auspices of Alexander Lodge, S.O.E. No. 116. The late Mr. Bull was born in Kent, England, eighty-one years ago, and was a resident of this city for forty-two years. He was well known among contractors as an expert brick burner. He is survived by two sons, four daughters, one step-daughter and two step-sons.

There passed away this morning at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Arthur Rendell Griffin, aged sixty-two years, of Gladstone Avenue, Saanich. The late Mr. Griffin was born in England and had resided here for thirteen years. He is mourned by Mrs. Griffin at home, and two sisters and two brothers in England. The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon, proceeding from McCall Bros. Funeral Home to St. Barnabas Church, where service will be held at 1:30 o'clock. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

NEWS IN BRIEF

E. W. Beatty and some members of his party were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Spencer at luncheon at "Spencerwood" yesterday.

Frank Daly and Clarence Jalva were each fined $5 in City Police Court this morning for having no muffler on their automobiles.

Hernan Singh was fined $2.50 costs in the City Police Court this morning for dumping rubbish on a city street.

A large party of golfers arrived at the Empress Hotel to-day from Seattle, Tacoma, Aberdeen, Vancouver, Yakima and Portland.

Arthur Ploss, a second-year student at Victoria College, was this afternoon elected treasurer of the Alma Mater Society. Other nominees were Wm. Gibson, James Moyes and Edward Christopher.

The winning numbers of tomorrow's prizes arranged in connection with the Rotary Pageant at the Armories yesterday evening were: 3849, 840, 1045, 5144, 4129, 3422, 5209 and 5152. Holders of tickets bearing these numbers are requested to call for their prizes at the Rotary office, 117 Pemberton Building.

The British Columbia Government has contributed $500 towards relief of the distress caused by the San Domingo hurricane. An order-in-council approving the grant was yesterday issued by the Executive Council after Fred Landsberg, on behalf of the Red Cross Society, had drawn attention to the matter.

The Provincial Department of Public Works yesterday opened eight bids for construction of a new school at Rutland, B.C., and referred the tenders to departmental officials for analysis and report. The bids were submitted by the following: C. Jones, $8,438; L. Patterson and W. Black, $9,175; Storeness & Sorensen, $7,790; W. G. Miller, $8,220; Maclean & Giddings, $8,188; A. L. Bennett, $7,200; Albert C. Howard, $7,358, and Doss & Ryan, $9,400.

The widely circulated London Graphic contains in the latest issue a picture of the "Tillicum" outside the Crystal Garden. A short story tells how the dugout canoe was sailed by Capt. J. C. Vos, with one seaman, on a 40,000-mile trip around the world from Victoria in 1901, and was recently found in the mud of the Thames. The publication was secured by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau in co-operation with the B.C. Agent-General's Department in London.

MARKETING OF CANNED SALMON MAKES PROBLEM

No Depletion in Run on This Coast, But Sales Difficult, Says Major Motherwell

Canadian Press. Vancouver, Sept. 25.—There is no danger of depletion of the salmon runs in British Columbia waters, but there is a real problem looming in the marketing of canned salmon as a profit, said Major J. A. Motherwell, chief inspector of fisheries, addressing the first fall luncheon meeting of the Canadian Credit Men's Association here.

Present world markets, with "abnormal and impossible" competition from Siberia by a government-owned enterprise, has made it difficult to market the salmon industry here, Major Motherwell declared.

"I never saw so many salmon in my life and old canners will tell you the same thing," he said in reference to the catch of the present year, which has already broken all previous records for twenty years with a pack of close to 2,000,000 cases, with the season not yet ended.

There had been no depletion in British Columbia waters except in the Fraser River area, where the big four-year run had been damaged at Hell's Gate during C.N.R. construction. In addition, there had been over-fishing in this area. Many blamed the United States fishermen and their traps, but it should not be forgotten Canadian fishermen also must take a share of the blame, he said.

MUCH COMPETITION

Canners were having a bad time this year, Major Motherwell said. There was a big run and fishermen had enjoyed a good season with good earnings, but the canners found it difficult to sell their pack even at low prices in the face of world competition from the United States, Japan and Siberia. There was hardly any margin of profit in pinks sold at $4 a case, which was the prevailing price resulting from a big American carry-over from last year.

United States canners had an advantage in that eighty-five per cent. of their pack was sold in a protected domestic market, while Canadian canners could market only twenty per cent. at home. This, he expected, might be corrected to some extent by a campaign of Canadian advertising toward which the Federal government, through the Fisheries Department, would contribute dollar for dollar with the packers.

"There need be no fear as to future runs. Depletion of fish in the spawning grounds is the only thing we need to see to, and our department is determined to take care of that," Major Motherwell said in review of the measures taken.

FILCHARD INDUSTRY

The pilchard catch this year, starting late, had proved large, and the fish were in excellent condition for oil, but prices were low, he said. He was, however, optimistic as to the future of that large industry.

K. B. Forster, president of the association, in the chair, announced that John Cowan, general manager of Vancouver Milling and Grain Company, had just been elected national president of the association.

Church Birthday Party.—The congregation of the Oak Bay United Church, under the auspices of the Women's Association, recently enjoyed a very pleasant social evening. This took the form of a "birthday party," each guest contributing his or her gift in connection with the birthday of the church.

With Pilot W. J. Barrows at the controls, Mr. Lowe's plane took off from the Lansdowne field shortly after 11 o'clock.

Mr. Lowe will have his goods shipped north to establish residence here. Yesterday the new Fletcher plane, purchased by the company, returned here from Vancouver with R. H. Fleet, head of the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation Inc., of Buffalo and New York as a passenger.

BEATTY SHOWS HIS INTEREST IN ATHLETICS

President of C.P.R. Visits J.B.A.A. and Congratulates Clubmen

E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who was one of the most dashing athletes in the clubhouse at Victoria yesterday afternoon by paying a visit to the J.B.A.A. clubhouse at the Gorge.

Mr. Beatty is always anxious to see what facilities cities possess for the development of their young athletes, and he went off by himself yesterday to see the J.B.A.A.

Mr. Beatty was met by Dan O'Sullivan, veteran coach of the club, and J. J. Fouracre, secretary. Mrs. Arthur Cox, president of the women's auxiliary of the club, and Mr. Cox. Mr. Beatty was shown over the clubhouse, grounds and bathhouses, and he expressed admiration at the work being done by the club in fostering good, clean athletics.

The rowing branch of the club particularly interested him and he admired the array of trophies in the clubhouse and hoped that the oarsmen would be successful in their year in winning many more.

Mr. Beatty looked over the collection of pictures in the clubhouse and saw one of a Bombarrier Arthur Currie, now at the University of McGill, who he smiled as he looked on the strapping youngster and realized the early training at the J.B.A.A. had done its part in fitting him for the great tests in later life.

Mr. Beatty is known throughout the country for his interest in the athletic life of communities, particularly among the young people. He was a great athlete in his younger days and is an ardent follower of most games in Canada today.

CURRIE SEES VETERANS IN SOLID BODY

Former Canadian Army Commander Greets Ex-service Men Here

"I think there is a stronger and more intimate comradeship among the soldiers to-day than at any other time, and I think the returned soldiers' organization which you represent is on a more solid foundation than at any time in its history," declared Lieutenant-General Sir Arthur Currie, war-time commander of Canadian troops in France, and now president of the McGill University Veterans' Association.

Mr. Currie expressed delight in meeting veterans of the campaign in France. In an informal way, he spent some time in the branch headquarters, fraternizing with old comrades.

"I cannot tell you what a joy it is to me to come back to Victoria," he said. "This city means more to me than any other place I know, because it was here that my children were born and where I spent my happiest days."

Referring to the campaign in France, he said that the time was coming when the legion would be so powerful and so solidly united that every ex-service man would be glad to join.

He gave credit to Colonel LaPléche, former president of the legion, for the changes which had been worked in the pension system, and which had given several advantages to the ex-service men.

Representatives from the various legion branches who attended the meeting were: Britannia Branch: C. G. Bloomfield, E. Sneddon, H. Thomas and J. J. Blair; Port Patricia, H. D. Twigg, M.P.P.; C. A. Hill, R. P. Layton, J. C. Corrywood, A. B. Morkill, D. M. Campbell, A. D. Crease, Sir Percy Lake and J. Bowler; British Campagners: Colonel Lorne Ross, Major Stearn, Major Christie and B. Boggs; Naval Veterans: Branch, E. S. Mitchell, T. Brown, R. Spicer, Commander C. R. R. Slingsby, W. H. Hadley and Phillips; and H. Smith; North Saanich, Colonel C. W. Peck, V.C., Major W. J. Wilby, A. Carter; T.V.A.: P. A. Stock, A. Moss, G. Horan, J. St. Clair, H. F. Thorpe, district secretary, and W. G. Stone, of the provincial executive.

FORMER CHURCH BURNED DOWN NEAR COLWOOD

Fire at Colwood yesterday afternoon removed an old landmark which many years ago occupied a site at the Craigflower bridge.

The former church building was badly removed by Colwood four years ago and since was utilized as a barn on the Peck property on the Sooke Road at Colwood.

A cow imprisoned in the barn and owned by Mrs. Ernie Peck, could not be released and was burned to death in the blazing structure. A quantity of harness was also lost.

LOWE LEAVES FOR CALIFORNIA

Edward A. Lowe Jr., president of the Victoria Imperial-Athletic Association, left here this morning to fly to San Francisco, where he will wind up his affairs before returning here to reside.

With Pilot W. J. Barrows at the controls, Mr. Lowe's plane took off from the Lansdowne field shortly after 11 o'clock.

Mr. Lowe will have his goods shipped north to establish residence here. Yesterday the new Fletcher plane, purchased by the company, returned here from Vancouver with R. H. Fleet, head of the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation Inc., of Buffalo and New York as a passenger.

ROTARY FAVORS BEACON HILL IMPROVEMENT

Service Clubs Council Will Be Asked to Support Betterment By City

Beautification of Beacon Hill Park will be brought before the Service Clubs' Council by the Rotary Club, in an effort to support the City Council in improvement of the park. At the weekly luncheon held at the Empress Hotel to-day the members unanimously adopted a resolution introduced by E. Carmichael and supported by E. Tomlin and Thomas Walker to have the matter referred to the Service Clubs' Council.

President M. W. J. Bruce warmly praised the Pageant of the Nations being given nightly at the Armories, declaring that Lieutenant-Governor Bruce had expressed delight with the colorful display by hundreds of girls, while Brigadier Sutherland Brown had complimented the evolutions performed by the girls. The members instructed the directors to prepare plans for entertaining the participants in the pageant.

An amusing stunt was presented by T. J. Goodlake, A. V. Clarke and several other members, who took part in combined mock trial, classification talk and seamanship contest.

W. Kenny, manager of the Kresge department store, was welcomed as a new member.

WILL DEVELOP RICH DEPOSIT AT PORT HARDY

Big Company Plans Development of Valuable Galena Discovery

Important galena deposits between James and Mahuett Lake near Port Hardy will be developed by the American Smelting and Mining Company of New York, one of the latest companies of its kind in the United States, according to information received by the British Columbia Mines Department.

The company which is heavily interested in the Premier Mine, will start operations immediately on the valuable silver, lead and zinc deposits, it is learned.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

Other important developments are reported at Port Hardy. Certificate of E. Sneddon, H. Thomas and J. J. Blair; Port Patricia, H. D. Twigg, M.P.P.; C. A. Hill, R. P. Layton, J. C. Corrywood, A. B. CITY FATHERS TO SHOOT FOR GOLF TROPHY

The city fathers have turned to golf. Headed by Mayor Anselcomb, who is still the undisputed champion of one course in the city, despite his defeat at the hands of H. F. Matthews, western manager of C.P.R. hotels, at the new Crystal Garden course yesterday, the members of the council will play for the Alderman Robert Smith trophy shortly.

Alderman Smith announced this morning he would donate a cup for competition of the council members. The contest will be held on the Crystal Garden course.

The Mayor will be handicapped, however. Although Alderman Smith claims he could take the chief magistrate into camp at scratch, he feels the rest of the council should be given a chance, since the Mayor has had more practice.

LOCAL WOMAN PHOTOGRAPHED MANY SCENES

Mrs. L. Bertha Parsons Exhibits Italian Photographs Taken During Tour

Clear and interesting enlargements of thirty-three photographs taken by Mrs. L. Bertha Parsons during her recent trip to Italy with Rev. Dr. Clem Davies's party, are now being displayed in the window of Howard A. Chapman, Government Street photographer.

The photographs show a fine appreciation on the part of Mrs. Parsons of Italy's past and present history, and a great interest in what that land of sunshine had to offer her.

While the various photographs, such as those of the Coliseum, the Forum, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier (Ignoto Milite), Mt. Vesuvius, the ruins of Pompeii and other places of historical note are really worth a close examination, they are made a good deal more interesting when the story of their taking is told.

DIPPED COINS IN LAVA

On a visit to Mount Vesuvius a great deal of risk was run by Mrs. Parsons, who with two others entered the actual crater and dipped coins into the molten lava from which the never-failing column of gas is emitted. On the trip up the mountainside, Mrs. Parsons was struck by the magnificent orchards of apricots, figs and grapevines which grow within a few hundred feet of the crater and are made to grow more abundantly through the application to the soil of molten lava.

Mrs. Parsons's interest in her native literature is shown in the photographs she took of places dear to lovers of the great English poets—Byron, Keats and Shelley. There is a stirring picture of Lake Geneva and the Castle of Chillon, which Byron immortalized in his sonnet, "Chillon," and in his narrative poem, "The Prisoner of Chillon."

A closer picture of this castle shows the tower and moat. Mrs. Parsons also took pictures of the cell where the imprisoned patriot, Bonaparte, lived for so many years, of the pillar to which he was tied, and of the window where in "The Prisoner of Chillon" the big-prisoner's only sight of the free world—entered. She saw the stately halls of the castle, made merry years ago with the revels of lords and ladies, the noise of which reached the dungeons below through many feet of stone wall.

VISITED POETS' GRAVES

In Rome Mrs. Parsons visited the Protestant Cemetery where Keats and Shelley are buried. Her picture of Keats's tomb brings out very well the epitaph which the disillusioned Keats himself wrote: "Here lies one whose name was writ in water." In this cemetery as well she saw the only pyramid tomb in Rome and St. Paul's gate, through which the Christian martyr was led to execution.

A visit to the Coliseum brought new surprises to Mrs. Parsons. Half the floor of this huge structure, she said, is not smooth but furrowed with alleys bordered by high walls. Into these alleys, which are so numerous as to be a maze, were led the Christians. The lions and tigers entered at the other end, and the sport of the assemblage was to witness the tracking down of the Christians by the animals.

PICTURES OF POMPEII

The streets of Pompeii, according to Mrs. Parsons, are only about twelve feet wide, but the space between the buildings on either side is three or four times the width of the street. This space is filled with large boulders, which enable the pedestrian to step down into the street from the high sidewalks. Mrs. Parsons took fine pictures of the main street of Pompeii and a courtyard nearby.

Naples, where the top of the hotel in which the party stayed, was destroyed by a volcanic eruption a week after they departed, is represented by a picture of the summer resort in which the great singer, Enrico Caruso, contracted the illness which resulted in his death.

VICTORIA CITY CANNOT FIELD TEAM SATURDAY

Refuse to Meet Jokers in Jackson Cup Replay Under Present Conditions

Last Year's Players Are Now Free Agents; Protest to B.C.F.A. if Necessary

Declaring it to be impossible for them to meet the conditions under which the match has been ordered replayed, the Victoria City Soccer Club will not field a team for their game with the Jokers at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday afternoon, according to an announcement made by officials of the team to-day.

The match was a replay of last year's Jackson Cup final which was won by the Jokers and protested by the City. The Lower Ground Foot Association threw out the protest, but it was later upheld by the British Columbia Football Association, which ordered the match replayed.

In setting down the conditions for the match, the L.F.A. stipulated that the teams must be composed of last year's players who must have been signed seven days prior to last year's final.

The Victoria City officials claim the L.F.A. are outside their jurisdiction, as last year's players are free agents and most of them have registered with other clubs for the present season. The City has protested to the L.F.A. and if not successful there will carry its argument to the B.C.F.A.

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE YESTERDAY GUEST OF ARTILLERYMEN

General Sir Arthur Currie was yesterday evening the guest of honor of the officers of the Fifth Bn. Coast Brigade, Canadian Garrison Artillery, at the officers' mess at the Armories.

Lieut.-Col. T. B. Monk, commanding the brigade, received the guest and introduced the officers of the unit. Sir Arthur Currie gave no address.

NEW DUTY ON GASOLINE SUPPLY IS ESTIMATED

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

Winnipeg, Sept. 25.—Wheat: The market was decidedly more active to-day than it has been for some time with a much more friendly feeling existing, and prices showed a stronger tendency, being higher throughout and on the extreme bulge were two cents above the close Wednesday.

There was good buying going on most of the day that was largely credited to eastern account, while at the same time shorts were covering with export or seaboard houses buying moderately.

Offerings were not heavy, there being very little hedging pressure owing to the light movement in the country, but the pool were credited with unloading some wheat on the scale up, while on the extreme bulge longs were inclined to take profits which broke the market back during the last half hour, many believing the advance had been too rapid.

There was some export business worked overnight, and while somewhat improved from what it has been, still the volume was not large, probably in the neighborhood of 800,000 bushels. In the cash market there was an excellent demand for the durum, but not much doing the spring wheat. Spread on the durum was from 1/4 to 1 cent better while the hard grade springs were quarter to 1/2 cent off due to the unfavorable weather in the north, which will likely increase these grades. Spreads on top grades were unchanged.

Heavy news was received in the west the last week of the year, delaying movement of crop and wheat marketings yesterday were only 1,448,000 as compared with 4,896,000 a year ago. Liverpool closed firm at 2 1/2 to 3 higher. The market was certainly a little better, but advice caution in following the bulge, for Winnipeg futures closed 1/4 to 1/2 higher.

Coarse grains: These markets were somewhat erratic throughout. There was some buying of futures based on the fact that prices are considered too low, but the cash demand continued very light and only an odd car was changing hands. Oats closed 1/4 to 1/2 higher, barley 1/4 lower and rye finished from 1/4 to 1/2 higher.

Barley: These markets were weak. Conditions in the Argentine are now reported as very favorable. Closing prices 1/4 to 1/2 lower.

Liverpool due 1/4 lower, based on Winnipeg.

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

New York, Sept. 25.—Whitney & Co. Wall Street Financial Bureau says today:

UNSUCCESSFUL RAIDING

"The attack on yesterday's market represented what will stand as probably the most intensely concerted and well engineered attempt to break the market open that we have seen since the panicky days of a year ago. In the market, which was proceeding serenely to cancel the effects of its recent decline, the street was suddenly confronted with the simultaneous pouring out of selling orders from a half dozen important sources, with the result that it was but five minutes work to bring about near-chaotic conditions which for a time looked as if the ideas of those behind the orders were going to see their success in a wide open break. Emboldened by their initial success, a further attempt was made which certainly gave us about as bad a looking market as we have seen in many months.

"Taking the net result of the whole day's operations, however, can only point out that, for the few points that were temporarily gained on the downside and as quickly restored before the market closed, can only consider that this whole manoeuvre was certainly taking a lot of trouble for what little it accomplished.

"The entire motivating idea behind it was without a doubt to break through the August lull, but as it stands they still remain intact with a bear party short a whole lot more stock than it was forty-eight hours ago. The whole piece of work has at least accomplished the useful purpose of testing the market's last important bottom at 217 in the Dow Jones industrial, and with the test giving every appearance of having been successfully met, I consider the atmosphere considerably cleared and the way paved for some of the higher prices which a slowly creeping business recovery are going to warrant in the stock market.

"Yesterday's contributions to business figures are encouraging showing an increase of about 110,000 cars for the week ending September 13 over the previous week, which even allowing for the fact that it compares with a holiday week just before it, is nevertheless, a rather good increase.

"Reports from the steel industry show that deferred summer orders have accounted for an increase in the operating rate from 58 per cent to 61 per cent, while building reports show a gratifying turn up in metropolitan residential construction in the first half of September. The whole trade recovery and the stock market, which is so dependent upon it for its cue to higher prices is, of course, proceeding slowly but in so far as the market was seen yesterday in a report, there is much better off with the tested bottom than we now have, even though the testing process is admittedly uncompleted while it lasts to those holding stocks.

GAS STATIONS WIDEN SERVICE

Further expansion of the service station activities of large oil companies was seen yesterday in a report that Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is planning to see storage batteries for autos at its stations. It was said that the sales campaign of the company might also be extended to cover those household chemical products in which it is interested. A gradual metamorphosis of the service stations from simple gasoline filling points to completely equipped units where auto accessories of all sort, and the common household chemical products in which it is interested, are handled, was believed to be on the way. It was thought efforts to centralize a large part of the small town business at the service stations would be made.

MERGER RUMOR DENIED

Reports that the preferred stockholders Committee of International Combustion has approved an agreement with Foster Wheeler for merger of the companies were denied yesterday by E. W. Stetson, chairman of the Combustion Company's organization committee. There is now no definite offer from Foster Wheeler, he said. A tentative plan was suggested with the idea of making it an offer approved by the Combustion Committee. At the present time conversations are being held between officials of the two companies, but no plan has as yet been submitted to Foster Wheeler, directorate for its consideration.

FLIGHT

1928 By RUTH DEWEY GROVES "WHEN A GIRL LOVES" "LOVE FOR TWO"

Jerry turned her head to look at him. They were driving on Broadway and his eyes were fixed on the traffic ahead of him. Jerry could hardly believe that he had just proposed marriage to her. One hand was on the steering wheel, the other on the gear lever. Could this be the same man who had held her in his arms last night and kissed her so fervently this man who did not even look at her when he asked her the most important question that could ever be put to a girl? Nothing but the tenderness of his voice was in keeping with the significance of that tender scene; it alone betrayed emotion.

"Oh, why did I come out with him?" Jerry asked herself. He had already told her he loved her. She might have known that he would want to widen the scope of those words. Why had she thought she could ignore what happened last night? How she must put an end to their friendship. And that she was reluctant to do. . . she didn't want Dan Harvey to leave her. How could she know. . . Dan said Jerry had promised her a nice little home. Dan hadn't promised anything. And she felt she didn't love him so much she couldn't live without him. He ought to ask her if she.

The lights ahead were turning red. The car came to a dead stop. She would have to say something now.

CHAPTER XVIII

"I've lost my job," Jerry found herself saying. It surprised her. She hadn't meant to say anything like that. It was just a slip of the tongue. An important proposal. Yes, it was, too. She meant that she was unstrung, in no frame of mind to settle a matter as momentous as her marriage.

The green light was on. Dan was looking at her in his half-averted eyes, hanging on her next words. Her first utterance had filled him with misgivings; it did not seem likely to preface an acceptance.

"Wait until we get out of this," he said quickly. "I'm sorry I was so abrupt, but I couldn't help it. I've been holding it back so long."

Jerry smiled. It would be three weeks to-morrow night since they first met. The thought gave her courage. Surely they couldn't be so deeply in love with each other in that short space of time as to make it heart-breaking to part.

They drove on in silence until they had reached a place on Riverside Drive where Dan could park the car. A magnificent view of the Hudson River was before them but neither gave it a thought.

Dan insisted that Jerry look at him. Holding her eyes with his own he asked her if she loved anyone else. That question Jerry could answer without hesitating.

"Please don't talk to me about love," she evaded. "It's only a pitfall."

Dan might have laughed at her response if he himself hadn't become such a hopeless victim of the tender passion. As it was he interpreted her answer to mean that she had never experienced love. . . mating love. If that were so, then she couldn't be in love with Alister Carstairs.

"Why do you say that?" he asked sharply. "Have you ever come to grief through loving someone?"

Mentally he swore an oath that he'd choke the life out of Alister Carstairs if he'd made Jerry suffer.

"I've never been in love," Jerry said and now she dropped her eyes.

Dan reached out and seized her hands. "I want to marry you, Jerry," he said. "I've never before felt like this about a girl. But when I gathered you up out of the debris of that wreck and held you while your breath came back and your eyelids fluttered open after I had begun to believe we had killed you I got the first thought that I'd met the only girl I'd ever want to spend the rest of my life with."

Jerry pulled her hands away. "You wouldn't want a girl who didn't love you more than anything else in the world, would you?" she asked.

"No," Dan said. "But I thought. . . I had a wild idea that you felt as I did."

"But you shouldn't," Jerry cried in protest. "I never encouraged you."

"That's right," Dan agreed. "If I hadn't been a fool I wouldn't have imagined that you'd listen to me. But you know, Jerry, for a little while last Sunday, I thought. . . see here, you say you aren't in love. Do you think there's anything better than that?"

Jerry remained silent for a moment. "Yes," she said. "I do. I want a future that's secure. Marrying a poor man is too big a risk. I've seen the romance of a lot of marriages wash away in the deluge."

Dan, too, sat silent a moment before answering. Finally: "I see," he said heavily. "You want to marry money."

A swift rush of color mounted to Jerry's cheeks as she caught a hint of approbrium in his voice.

"What right had he to reproach her? Was his mother's soul starved for beauty? Did she carry pails of water to plants that were doomed by family selfishness?"

Maybe, but if it were true Dan Harvey was both blind and selfish to be forgetting it. Of course there was the prospect that he came from a better home than she. In that case how could he know the bitterness of poverty, the ugly, dwarfing effect it had upon a person?

"Yes," she said proudly. "I want to marry money."

Dan looked at her with abject misery eating at his heart. He understood, of course, that she wanted to marry Alister Carstairs.

God, what an awakening she was in. "Jerry, Jerry," he pleaded. "You don't know what you are talking about. Why, girl, if you did that you'd miss all that we have been through."

He felt compelled to warn her even at the risk of incurring her anger. For the first time in his life he regretted his infatuation with her. He tried to laugh, to start it off carelessly.

"Well, I hope when you start your campaign for a rich husband you will look up the records of the eligible bachelors before you take the dive," he said lightly, or as lightly as he could. He was placing himself in an enviable position, knocking the other man. He hated that.

Jerry said nothing. He would have to continue, make it clearer.

"Some of our richest young men don't have the things they're most famous for listed in the guides to society," he said awkwardly, hoping she would understand without the necessity of his calling Alister a blackguard in so many words.

Jerry stared at him blankly. She sensed something of the meaning behind his words. But the idea that Dan should be speaking ill of anyone hardly seemed believable.

"Why should people always think that rich young men are bad?" he asked, trying to keep the conversation in an impersonal vein. She suspected that it would turn to Alister Carstairs if Dan spoke his mind freely.

"That's not what I'm trying to say," Dan returned quietly. "Jerry, if you must know, I have one rich young man in particular in my mind. I'd hate to see a girl who wanted marriage fall in love with him, unless she were of his own station in life."

Jerry's color now became as vivid as a peony.

"Don't you think you ought to call Miss Ray?" she said, wanting to hurt him because he had hurt her. "No, I don't," Dan answered, "unless you insist upon it. A man can't love you, Jerry, if he loves as I love you."

"Then you'd better take me home," she told him quickly. "And. . . and I don't think we should see each other again."

Dan stared hard at the haughty profile she turned to him. How dared she look like that—the cold-blooded little fortune hunter! His own features took on a coldness to equal her own and he faced about to start the motor and move off with the first abandonment of care in driving that Jerry had ever seen him show.

The silence between them became oppressive. Dan broke it, not far from her home.

"I know you despise me for knocking," he flared out unexpectedly. "But you're such a blind idiot I've got to do it. Why can't you understand that an idle young whelp like. . . well, like Alister Carstairs, for instance, hasn't a chance to escape common temptations as a fellow who is too busy to spend his time with pretty girls?"

Secretary, American Bridge League

Occasionally it pays to discard a loser on a trick that can be trumped in order to keep a certain hand in the lead.

SOUTH-DEALER C-6-3-2

WEST S-A-K-7-2
H-A-K-8-4-3
D-K-7-4
C-4-2

THE BIDDING
At contract, South, the dealer, would open with one heart. West, holding two high card tricks and a biddable four-card suit, would be justified in bidding two clubs. North jumps the bid to three hearts and South, having more than a minimum, now takes the contract to four hearts.

THE PLAY
West's strongest suit is clubs, and as it is headed with king-queen, the king led, dummy winning the trick with the ace. A small trump is next led from dummy which the declarer wins with the king. Declarer now leads the ace of trump, picking up the remaining trump in the opponents' hands.

Declarer's next lead is a small diamond. West plays the eight, dummy winning the trick with the ace. The five of diamonds is returned from the dummy which the declarer wins with the king. Declarer now leads the seven of diamonds, trumping in the dummy with the seven of hearts. The nine of clubs is next led from dummy. East playing the six, declarer the jack. West winning the trick with the ace.

West now leads the queen of clubs, dummy plays the ten, East the eight and the declarer refuses to trump the trick, discarding the deuce of spades. He is now assured of going game. If West returns a spade, declarer is bound to make his kind of spades. If a club is returned, the declarer will trump in dummy and discard a losing spade. By discarding a loser and keeping the lead in the West hand, declarer has gone game.

SHUFFLE AND CUT
While it is customary for the player on the left of the declarer to shuffle the cards, remember that the declarer has the right to shuffle the cards last. The pack must be shuffled thoroughly in view of all players, but the face of no card shall be exposed during the shuffle. If any provision of this law be violated, any player before the deal starts may demand a new shuffle.

Immediately before the deal, the dealer shall place the four corners of his right hand opponent who shall make a legitimate cut by lifting off the top portion and placing it behind the bottom portion toward the dealer. The dealer then completes the cut. No cut shall be made that leaves fewer than four cards in the top or bottom portion. If any player shuffle after the cut, a new shuffle and a new cut may be demanded by any player.

BEDTIME STORY
Uncle Wiggily And Teacher's Pet
(Copyright, 1930).

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Jackie Bow Wow, the little puppy dog boy, leaned over in his desk at the Hollow Stump School and whispered to Billie Wagtail, the goat, who sat in front.

"Baby Bunty is teacher's pet!" whispered Jackie.

"How do you know?" softly bleated Billie.

"Just you watch and you'll see," answered Jackie. "Baby Bunty runs errands for the Lady Mouse Teacher and she stays in to clean off the blackboards. Oh, Bunty is teacher's pet all right! She never gets kept in when we do."

"Baa-a-a-a!" bleated Billie, out loud, before he thought. "So Bunty is teacher's pet, is she? Let's call her that after school!"

"Bunty!" agreed Jackie. Then Miss Mouse, who had been on the other side of the room, where she heard Billie's bleat, said: "Billie, you may stay in after school."

"Yes'm," said Billie, meekly. But he looked at Jackie and Jackie looked at him and then they both looked at Baby Bunty who was bending over her reading book trying to make friends with a new, hard word.

A little while after that Miss Mouse said: "Bunty, there is a big bumble bee buzzing just outside the back window. He may fly in and bother some of those who are studying. Will you please go outside and politely ask Mr. Bumble to buzz over the woods so he won't bother our school?"

"Yes'm," answered Baby Bunty and the little orphan rabbit hopped to do this errand for her teacher.

"What did I tell you?" whispered Jackie to Billie.

"Will you please not buzz around our school, Mr. Bumble!" asked Bunty as she saw the big yellow bee flying around the window.

"All right, my dear! I'll fly away," said the polite answer and Bunty hopped back to study her spelling. School was out for the afternoon. All the animal pupils hurried away to have fun, except Billie Wagtail and Baby Bunty. Billie had to stay in for bleating out loud. And when Miss Mouse, at her desk, looked at Bunty in her seat the teacher said: "I didn't tell you to stay in, Baby Bunty."

"I know, Miss Mouse," spoke the little orphan rabbit. "but, please, may I clean the blackboards for you?"

"Why, yes, Bunty, that will be very kind of you," answered Miss Mouse, smiling down at Bunty.

"Baby Bunty is teacher's pet. As soon as I'm let out I'm going to stick my head back in the window and I'm going to hold up the word 'TEACHER'S PET'—TEACHER'S PET!"

After a while Miss Mouse said: "You may go now, Bunty. But please don't bleat out loud in class again, will you?"

"Yes'm! I mean no'm!" said Billie as he skidded out of the room.

He found Jackie Bow Wow waiting for him.

"What did I tell you?" barked Jackie. "That's right! Baby Bunty is teacher's pet!" bleated Billie.

Miss Mouse will go soon, went on Billie. "But Baby Bunty will stay to wipe the chalk dust off the blackboards. Then we'll stick our heads in the window and hold up 'TEACHER'S PET'—TEACHER'S PET!"

"Sure," said Billie.

Pretty soon Miss Mouse left the class room, but Bunty stayed to clean off the blackboards, which she loved to do. She would rub the erasers over the white chalk marks. When the erasers were full of white chalk dust, Bunty would knock them clean on the window sill.

All of a sudden, Jackie and Billie stuck their heads in the window and most impudently called out loud: "TEACHER'S PET! TEACHER'S PET! BABY BUNTY IS TEACHER'S PET!"

"Oh, you mean things!" cried Bunty, with an eraser. "I don't teacher's pet, I mean things!"

"You are so!" cried Billie and Jackie. Just then Uncle Wiggily came running around the corner of the school. He was being chased by the Bob Cat who wanted to catch the rabbit.

"Help! Help!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I've got you!" yelled the Bob Cat. "No, you won't!" yelled Bunty. Quickly she clapped the two chalk erasers together, banging like a gun. Out puffed a big white cloud of chalk dust in the face of the Bob Cat making him sneeze and blinding his eyes so he couldn't see to catch the rabbit gentleman. The Bob Cat thought the chalk dust was snow and, being afraid of catching cold, away he ran. Uncle Wiggily, laughing and safe.

For a teacher's pet Bunty is very brave! Jackie and Billie didn't say a word, but went away taking their tails with them. And if the jumping rope will stand still long enough for the roller skates to make a swing out of it, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's Wild West.

Horoscope
FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1930
Benefic aspects dominate to-day, according to astrology. Certain adverse influences are also discernible in the horoscope. It is a day read at extraordinarily auspicious for women and their ambitions. Those interested in public service of any sort should especially benefit.

All the arts should have a certain impetus under this direction, and, especially, is to compel unusual attention.

The seers read this as a day of much promise to writers of every class. It is a lucky rule under which sign contracts or to enter into new partnerships.

Astrologers prophesy that there will be many reconciliations and readjustments in business affairs, but they will assure the highest possible efficiency.

Disappointments of various sorts are indicated for the evening, when it is well to preserve one's peace.

Although the seers have foretold more stability for marriage there will be many divorces filed next month, the seers prognosticate.

Persons whose birthdate is 11 have the sunniest of good fortune in the coming year. A journey that brings profit is forecast.

Children born on this day probably will be strong physically and extremely able to work out their own destinies. These subjects of Libra usually are wonderfully brilliant in mind.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Colorful Pageant Of Nations Given Warm Reception

Rotary Club Scores Signal Success With Display in Aid of Solarium at Armories; Lieutenant-Governor Opens Performance, Asking Unstinted Support of Public; L. C. Basanta, Producer, Is Honored at Conclusion.

Before an audience of approximately 1,000 people, which filled every available seat in the Bay Street Armories, the Pageant of Nations, staged under the auspices of the Victoria Rotary Club in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium and community service work, was officially opened by Lieutenant-Governor Randolph Bruce yesterday evening.

Three hundred girls, depicting in multi-colored dresses the various nations of the world, appeared in the pageant, which is the first of its kind ever presented in Victoria. It was produced by L. C. Basanta, and conveyed in a veritable kaleidoscope of hues the international idea of Rotary, covering the world. Throughout the fifty-minute performance, the audience continually was handclapping and at the conclusion Mr. Basanta received a fine ovation.

The pageant will be shown for the last three nights of this week, starting at 8.15 o'clock.

The Lieutenant-Governor, who was introduced by Rev. Montague Bruce, president of the Rotary Club, made a plea for the unstinted support of the public for the pageant.

GRATITUDE TO ROTARY

"I must extend the gratitude of the people of Victoria, and of the whole of British Columbia, to the Rotary Club for their work in producing such a display," he said, speaking of the Rotary Club's efforts in the past to aid crippled and other unfortunate children. He referred to the excellent turn-out of the public for the opening night.

In attendance at the opening with the Lieutenant-Governor's party were Miss Mackenzie, Lady Rosalind Northcote, Brigadier and Mrs. J. Sutherland Brown, Commander and Mrs. Tingley, Mayor Anson, Col. D. B. Martyn, Col.

and Mrs. Ball, Col. and Mrs. T. B. Monk and Capt. W. H. Molson.

The spacious Armories Building, lavishly decorated with flags and bunting, made an appropriate setting for the colorful pageant. Beneath a gigantic Rotary wheel at one end was the dais upon which Miss Rotary, taken by Miss Kathleen Bona, made her appearance. At the other end was a huge ball representing the world, whence came representatives of the nations, bringing tribute to Rotary.

TUMBLING DISPLAY

Prior to the actual pageant was an exhibition of tumbling, staged by the Y.M.C.A. squad under the direction of Archie McKinnon and Harry Robson. Spectacular pyramids and some intricate tumbling performances were given by this group, composed as follows: Fred Campbell, Mel Dennstedt, Ken Fleming, Fred Leffler, Rudolph Leffler, A. McKinnon, D. McPherson, Chris. McRae, Bob Mear, Percy Riddie, H. Robson, Chas. Sharpe, Gerald Sharpe, Alan Stewart, Gordon Wilkin and Rod McMillan.

The opening scene of the pageant was extremely effective, portraying Miss Rotary as she extended the hand of friendship to the nations. In a gilded gown, she advanced from her dais with regal air to greet the delegates. Her pages were Vera Woodley and Nellie White.

After her greeting was extended, the representatives of the new nations in Rotary danced toward her seat, waving their national flags and bringing tribute. These parts were taken by Elaine Basanta, Venezuela; Beryl Cleaveby, Panama; Mildred Graham, Switzerland; Sheila McAllister, China; Mabel Pennington, Cuba; Olga Pennington, Mexico; Jessie Pollock, Bermuda; Muriel Pollock, Peru; Joyce Scurrah, Bolivia; Pat Somers, Chile; Josie Wardell, Colombia; Leona White, Belgium.

Then from the suspended ball, spinning on its axis, appeared the largest nations each represented by a girl with the national flag, and bringing a message of peace on earth and good-will to men. The parts of the leaders were taken by: Great Britain, Barbara Hulse; Canada, Frances Patton; United States, Elaine Sheppard; Italy, Bernice Penner; Spain, Joyce Applegate; Argentina, Myra Edwards; Japan, Dolly McAlpine; Germany, Berna Ridland; France, Naomi Taylor, and Norway, Gladys Heston.

TRUMPETS HERALD APPROACH

A blast of trumpets and roll of drums heralded the advance of these national representatives, who came to meet on the common ground of friendship, symbols of the message of Rotary.

Dorothy Basanta and Byrd Luney took the parts of the international leaders. From the rear of the dais appeared the groups of each nation. Marching behind their leaders they advanced in wave upon wave, to take their places before Miss Rotary. A series of intricate marches, manoeuvres and dances, which presented a gorgeous riot of color, followed, reaching at intervals the hearty applause of the crowd. Each girl was dressed to represent a nation and each wore as a headpiece a miniature Rotary wheel.

LARGE CAST

The girls taking part were: Great Britain—Peggy Brindley, Eileen Chislett, Kathleen Davies, Edna Luney, Helen Mawhinney, Patricia Petherbridge, Davina Ritchie, Una Robertson, Doris Scott, Marguerite Sehl, Muriel Wright.

FLAG UNVEILED

Following an acrobatic dance by Eugene Doherty and a ballet by Maureen Grute and Berna Waring, the grand finale of unveiling the British flag in an acrobatic dance, marked the close. The national leaders, bearing the component parts of the flag danced to the dais and with the assembly of dancers forming an amphitheatre around them, constructed the flag. Those taking part in the tableaux were: Maureen Grute, Helen Peden, Berna Waring, Archie McKinnon, Gerald Sharpe and Jack Taylor.

The Victoria Girls' Band, under the baton of Bandmaster Hodgins, gave an extremely creditable performance, supplying the music for the whole pageant.

Stalls in the midway, where games of crown and anchor, bingo and roulette were in full blast with "sunshine" money, claimed the attention of the visitors after the pageant, while dancing was in progress.

A delightfully arranged candy stall was in charge of Mrs. Sands, Mrs. J. Land, Mrs. J. Gardiner, Mrs. R. Brencley and Mrs. W. Hughes, while the following, following the pageant, were: Mrs. J. Clark, Mrs. P. Doherty, Mrs. P. Watson, Mrs. W. Pinfold and Mrs. W. Maynard. At a tastefully decorated English tea garden, those in charge were: Mrs. H. Myers, Mrs. H. Pimley, Mrs. Teasdale and Mrs. C. Tice. Ice cream and candy were sold at a stall by Mrs. C. Penner, Mrs. W. Lemm, Mrs. J. Johnson, Mrs. J. Adam and Mrs. H. S. Timberlake. Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Kinsinger and Mrs. J. McKay handled the fortune telling booth.

The midway was in charge of Rotarian P. B. Schmeek, with members of the club directing the various games.

Officials of the club also responsible for the success of the pageant were: J. Percy Watson, vice-president; William Pinfold, vice-president; William Wilson, treasurer; Frank Shandley, sergeant-at-arms; Walter Luney, William Jameson and Herbert Pendray, directors; Percy Scurrah, chairman of the executive committee.

HIGH SCHOOL BY-LAW WILL GO BEFORE VOTERS

Saanich Must Provide Accommodation, Trustee Tomes Explains

At the Saanich municipal elections in January the ratepayers will be asked by the School Board to approve a substantial issue of debentures for construction of a new high school, the Ratepayers' Association at Tullicum annual meeting of the Ward Seven School was informed yesterday evening by Trustee William Tomes.

Mr. Tomes stated that over 200 students were accommodated in the Tullicum School, every room being fully occupied. Next year there would be at least 100 more students to be provided for. The trustees touched upon the large amount being paid Victoria for tuition of third-year students at the Victoria High School and remarked that the Saanich School was staffed with the best teachers available.

The meeting was well attended and elected the following officers: President, H. Campbell (re-elected), vice-president, M. Rogers; secretary-treasurer, J. Rickard; committee, Mrs. Howcroft, N. Sladden and H. Simpson; unemployment committee, H. Simpson and W. Woodrow. The regular meetings of the association will be held during the winter months on the second Friday evening of each month.

AFTER SIX YEARS SUFFERING HE IS LIKE A NEW MAN

"I Will Always Be Grateful to This New Sargon," Declares Waugh

"After six years suffering with stomach trouble and indigestion, Sargon has overcome every ailment. I had and I feel like a new man," recently stated J. Waugh, a well-known resident of 3270 49th Ave. W., Vancouver.

Read what he says:

"I'd have such trouble with indigestion that I finally went on a very careful diet, but even this didn't seem to do me any good. There were awful pains in my right side a good portion of the time, and it seemed like all the strength I had was leaving me. I was nervous and irritable, didn't sleep well and was generally rundown. There were days when it was just about all I could do to keep at work. I tried different treatments and medicines, but nothing helped me until I started Sargon, and I knew before I had finished the first bottle that it was different from anything else I had ever taken. And by the time I'd finished the fourth bottle my troubles were over! I enjoy life's pleasures as a relief to find an easy, natural-acting laxative like Sargon Pills; they toned up my liver and gave me perfect eliminations, without the irritating and upsetting effect of all the other laxatives I'd taken before. I will always be grateful to this remarkable Sargon treatment for the way it picked me up and put me squarely back on my feet in such fine health."

The Sargon man is at the Owl Drug Store, corner of Fort and Douglas Streets, where he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this celebrated new scientific product.

Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores; in New Westminster from the Bews Drug Company; in Esquimalt from Fulmer's Drug Store; in Oak Bay from Charles Hudson.
